Mr. Kelley is right on track

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Despite record levels of rain and flooding earlier in the week, and cool temperatures at the very end of the week, Thursday proved to be a beautiful warm, sunny day for the dedication of the Frank Kelley Track at Wilmington High School. Not even Mother Nature was willing to stand in the way of the one-and-only Mr. Kelley's deserved moment in the sun.

In his opening remarks, before a sizable crowd that turned out for the occasion, Town Manager Michael Caira joked that Kelley himself had brought about the good weather through the utterance of a mathematical equation.

By unanimous vote of the 2005 Annual Town Meeting, Wilmington High School's new track was named as a lasting tribute to the legendary high school mathematics teacher and track coach.

Frank Kelley developed Wilmington's track program in 1957 and continued as coach until his retirement in 1994. During his tenure, Kelley inspired tens of thousands of students in the classroom and in the field of athletics.

The indefatigable Kelley still coaches track in Weston, and he continues to substitute-teach for the Wilmington High School mathematics department.

"Frank Kelley is a coach and a teacher for everybody," Caira said. "He is not just in the top player, but in every player."

Superintendent of Wilmington Schools, William McAlduff read a portion of Kelley's resignation letter.

"It is no secret that I feel that I have been blessed by the opportunity to teach in the Wilmington School System," McAlduff quoted from the letter. "No one has been more

Crystal Commons decision appealed

Rep. Miceli and Burlington Ave. resident file suit against BOA

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - The Crystal Commons proposal received a majority approval from the Board of Appeals (BOA) last month, but it is not yet a done deal. A lawsuit filed against the Wilmington BOA, on behalf of Burlington Avenue resident Neil Devins and State Representative James Miceli, seeks judicial review of the approval.

Crystal Commons is a 108-unit condominium development slated for construction at 10 Burlington Avenue on the 11.5-acre site that had once been the home of the Diamond Crystal manufacturing plant. The development, proposed by Tambone Investment Group, will consist of two three-story buildings.

The action seeking appeal claims that Devins and Miceli are aggrieved by the BOA's decision and that the BOA exceeded its authority in approving the Crystal Commons proposal. Furthermore, the suit claims that the BOA's approval is not consistent with local needs and that the BOA failed to adequately articulate in its decision how such approval was consistent with local needs. It also claims that the approval will increase traffic and population density in the area to unsafe levels, decrease water pressure in the area to unsafe levels, significantly decrease the value of abutting properties, and that it adversely affects the interests of Devins and Miceli, which the local zoning bylaws were intended to protect.

Lastly, the suit claims that the BOA's approval was "arbitrary and capricious and otherwise not in accordance with applicable law."

The complaint demands judgment in favor of Devins and Miceli along with an order reversing and annulling the BOA's approval and "such other and further relief as this Court deems meet and just."

Upon the advice of his attorney, Miceli declined to comment on the pending case. Devins did not return a call for comment.

BOA Chairman Charles Boyle was also reticent to speak in-depth about a pending lawsuit, but did offer a short comment.

"I will say that I'm confident that our decision will withstand judicial scrutiny," Boyle said.

The Crystal Commons proposal, in evolving stages, had appeared before various town boards for more than a year, including several BOA public hearings beginning in September 2005. On April 3, 2006, the BOA granted its approval, by a 2 to 0 vote, for a comprehensive permit to Crystal Commons.

BOA Chairman Charles Boyle and BOA member Edward Loud voted in the affirmative. BOA member Robert Doucette voiced reservations against the development, but chose to abstain rather than cast a vote against.

"I believe the applicant has addressed all the concerns of the Board and of the neighbors," Boyle said before casting his vote in April. "I'd like to see this property put into good use to benefit the town and provide affordable housing to the community."

Doucette cited a lack of suffi-

In honor of those who fell

A look at the monuments dedicated to Wilmington's fallen sons

By CHARLEY VALLAS

WILMINGTON - To some, it simply means a 3-Day weekend, or a break from work, or a shortened school week. To others, it marks the beginning of the summer tourist season that runs until Labor Day. To some, it means it's time to put the boat in the water or open the camp; time to fire up the grill and have that first cookout of the season. To some, it means Tee times at the golf course, or baseball games, camping, parades, the beach, fishing, cold beer and visiting with the family. All of those are common and legitimate Memorial Day activities and traditions, albeit none of those mentioned carry the intent of Memorial Day.

Today's society demands fast paced lives and people often take their freedom, and so much more, for granted. Those families who have lost a loved one to war need no reminder. However, many of those not directly affected do need a reminder - and it is called Memorial Day.

(The following introduction, and much of the historical information that follows, has been culled from Paul Chalifour's book, "Wilmington: A Celebration of Our Times," which is available for purchase at the Wilmington Town Hall for $5.00. Mr. Chalifour is credited with all quoted material in this article.)

"Wherever conflict and tyranny may arise, the call to arms of Wilmington's men and women has never gone unanswered. In 1676 one of the first settlers to the area that would become Wilmington, Sergeant Abraham Jaquith, was one of forty 'troopers and dragoons' sent to scout the area of Groton, Lancaster, and Marlborough. Wounded during this, King Phillip's War, Jaquith finally succumbed to his injury in 1679. In 1778, Minuteman Jacob Flint died during the Battle for Rhode Island at Quaker Hill. In one of the bloodiest battles ever fought on American soil, Theodore S. Butters was wounded at Gettysburg on July 3rd 1863. A corporal in Company I, 2nd Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, twenty-year old Butters died on July 30th. He is buried at the battlefield's cemetery. Marine Sergeant Charles L. Smith made his final stand on the South Pacific island of Guadalcanal, having fallen there on September 14th 1942.

For more than three centuries we have enjoyed the right to gather and celebrate our past

WILMINGTON - Firefighters successfully rescued a 17-year old youth that had become stuck, almost all the way up to his waist, in mud last week.

Christopher Fisher from Haverhill, formerly of Wilmington, was in the area of Heritage Commons on Middlesex Avenue with several of his friends during the late afternoon of Wednesday, May 17th. The youths wandered onto the construction site located behind the Stuart Building on Middlesex Avenue and began playing around on the piles of dirt.

Deal reached with Town Counsel

Selectmen negotiate agreement identical to last year's

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - Despite two meetings and nearly six hours worth of negotiations, the Board of Selectmen and Town Counsel agreed to a contract identical to last year's. Selectman Michael Newhouse brought a number of proposed changes to the session. All were rejected by Town Counsel Paul DeRensis, and most were dismissed by his fellow selectmen.

The funds expended on town counsel fees have nearly doubled since DeRensis threatened to resign halfway through his first contract if the Town did not abandon its practice of paying a flat fee of $132,800 annually for town counsel services in favor of a revised contract. The revised contract, authored by DeRensis, consisted of a reduced annual retainer fee of $54,000 and hourly billing, at a rate of $165, for specialized legal services. The hourly bill rate went up to $170 in the 2005 contract. The town paid Deutsch/Williams (DW), DeRensis' law firm, $247,326.32 for retainer and legal services rendered in fiscal year 2005.

According to DeRensis, his firm has been forced to write-off $70,000 this year due to Wilmington's inefficiencies under the current contract, which expires as of June 30, 2006. DeRensis claimed that Wilmington's inability to manage its use of town counsel services resulted in excessive amounts of time spent doing duplicative and unnecessary retainer work.

"I've represented the town for three years and have had tremendous success for the town and I haven't made any money in any of those years," DeRensis said.

As was the case in the first of

It's Your Money

HOW'S YOUR 401(K)

With company pensions disappearing all around, your own retirement savings are more important than ever. For 25 years, a popular option has been the 401(k), funded by the individual worker, usually with some input from the employer. How's yours doing?

At least once a year, it's smart to check your account. Is the balance between investments still what you'd planned, or have changes in fund values skewed the balance? If you find following your investments closely is difficult, consider an asset-allocation fund. How much is locked into your company stock?

Are you saving as much as you can? The 2006 limits are $15,000, and $20,000 for those 50 or older. Be sure to save enough to get the maximum match from your employer; if you've gotten a raise, put a higher percentage of income into the 401(k). Changing jobs? Move the 401(k) money into an IRA. If you cash it in, you'll pay taxes and a penalty—and lose future tax-advantaged compounding.

What's your tax-smart option? Talk to the tax and finance people at:

Tewksbury absentee voting special town election June 10

Tewksbury Town Clerk, Elizabeth Carey, has prepared the following, concerning absentee voting. You may vote absentee if you are a registered voter and will be unable to vote at the polls because you will be out of town during the hours the polls are open, because you have a physical disability, or because of religious beliefs.

You, or a family member, must apply in writing, for an absentee ballot from the office of the Town Clerk before noon on Friday, June 9, 2006. An absentee ballot application request may be mailed or hand delivered.

You may request the official absentee ballot application form or you may use any form of written communication; a letter or postcard. Include your name, your address where you are listed as a registered voter, the precise address to which you want the ballot sent, and your signature. Requesting to vote by mail: A ballot will be sent to any address that you specify. Be sure to apply early because the ballot must be sent by mail. The ballot may be returned by mail or hand delivered to the Town Clerk's Office at the Town Hall. It must be received in the Office of the Town Clerk, Town Hall by 7:00 p.m. on election day. Requesting to vote in person: The final day to request to vote in person is before noon on Friday, June 9, 2006. You may fill out the application for an absentee ballot and vote at the Town Clerk's Office, Town Hall, during the same visit. Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Tuesday evening 7:00 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.. Please phone the Town Clerk's Office at 978-640-4355 if we can be of further assistance.

For years the Wilmington Minutemen have defied King George by erecting a Liberty Pole. 2006 was no exception. A small band of men gathered to put Captain Kelley's red Liberty Cap on top of the pole. Shown here Pvt. Andy Baily, Sgt. Bill Hitchcock and Pvt. Mike Bodner attach the pole to the base as Lt. Stu Neilson and Capt. Mike Kelley hold the top, awaiting the Liberty Cap. (Jim Gum photo)

OPINION

From: The Editors Desk

by Stephen P. Bjork

All gave some, but some gave all

Enjoy your barbecues this weekend. Enjoy your friends, neighbors, and family. Enjoy your day off from work. Just take a moment or two to remember why the weekend is long.

Memorial Day is a day to leave politics aside and to honor those brave souls that paid the greatest price to protect the freedoms that so many of us enjoy with a naïve sense of entitlement.

The fact of the matter, however, is that we are not simply entitled to the myriad liberties that we in this country employ without thought on a daily basis. These freedoms were bought and paid for through bloodshed and death.

Those who fell in battle knew that there is something worse than war. Oppression and the loss of liberty were, and are, worth fighting for.

Indeed, it seems the price has yet to be paid in full. Today we have American soldiers serving in harms way. This is not a time to debate the rights and wrongs of the current conflict; this is a time simply to honor our sons and daughters, brothers and sisters, fathers and mothers, whose last earthly sight was of a battlefield.

The true spirit of Memorial Day is one of solemnity, but for the very same reasons it must also be one of acclamation. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr. stated it perfectly in his Memorial Day speech of May 30, 1884:

"But grief is not the end of all. I seem to hear the funeral march become a paean. I see beyond the forest the moving banners of a hidden column. Our dead brothers still live for us, and bid us think of life, not death - of life to which in their youth they lent the passion and joy of the spring. As I listen, the great chorus of life and joy begins again, and amid the awful orchestra of seen and unseen powers and destinies of good and evil our trumpets sound once more a note of daring, hope, and will."

Enjoy your long weekend, but spare a few moments for remembrance; make an effort to attend Memorial Day services. Pay a visit to a cemetery. And then actively celebrate the wondrous freedoms that American soldiers gave their lives to protect.

IT IS THE SOLDIER

It is the soldier, not the reporter
Who has given us freedom of the press.
It is the soldier, not the poet
Who has given us freedom of speech.
It is the soldier, not the campus organizer
Who has given us the freedom to demonstrate.
It is the soldier, not the lawyer
Who has given us the right to a fair trial.
It is the soldier
Who salutes the flag,
Who serves under the flag,
Whose coffin is draped in the flag,
Who allows the protester to burn the flag.

Spaghetti Supper success

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the many Tewksbury residents served by the Tewksbury Community Pantry, I want to publicly thank the St. William's Men's Club for recently hosting a spaghetti supper to benefit the pantry. Their generosity of time and talent resulted in a monetary donation of approximately $1,700 to the pantry. These proceeds will be used to purchase necessary food supplies during the coming months.

I also want to join the Men's Club in recognizing the contributions made by French's Restaurant and Pushcart Restaurant of Tewksbury in contributing supplies for the dinner. Without the generosity of these businesses, and others throughout the year, the pantry would not be able to meet existing needs. The business community in Tewksbury has become a solid and silent partner in the pantry's operations and we are most appreciative of their ongoing and consistent efforts.

Finally, I want to thank the residents of our community who repeatedly step up to assist the pantry in meeting its financial needs by attending this most recent spaghetti supper or for remembering us with food or cash donations. We are mindful that there are many worthy organizations and causes to choose from, so we are forever grateful to those who remember their fellow residents by contributing time, talent, and money to the pantry. On behalf of the 120 households presently served by the pantry monthly, please accept our sincere thank you.

Sincerely,
Todd Johnson

A Daughter's Story

By Genifa Kelley-Bodtmann

In Memory of George Gavaria, K.I.A. January 12, 1966

I heard a saying once - "It's not the length of time you're on this earth that matters, but the impact you have while you're here." This story is about a man whom I never had the pleasure to meet. He was the only child of Albino and Lillian Gavaria.

The story starts back in 1965. That summer a man by the name of George Gavaria left for a country far away from his comfortable surroundings in Chicago, Illinois. He was part of the 9th Regiment of the First Cavalry Division which was being deployed to Vietnam.

Some months later in Cambridge, Massachusetts a man named Michael Kelley also prepared to leave his family and friends behind to embark on a journey that would change his life forever. Though he did not know it at that time, would later become my father. His tour in Vietnam was going to be simple. He was a mechanic, he would fix helicopters. But, that's not what happened.

A soldier was injured the day Kelley arrived and he got thrown into the position of door gunner. It was a scary situation for an 18 year old kid far from home.

Now enters George Gavaria. Gavaria was a bit older than my Dad and had been in Vietnam awhile. He showed Dad the ropes. He looked out for the new guys. Years later, while I was growing up, Dad shared stories of George with me and my brothers. George was due to leave Nam for home July of 1966, however being the courageous, live-on-the-edge type of guy, he opted to stay and help the replacements coming in. This decision is one his parents and my father would live with forever. George was killed by sniper fire December 1, 1966 while trying to rescue injured ground soldiers.

Some time after returning from Vietnam my Dad, through the help of the American Red Cross, was able to contact George's parents. This relationship remains intact today. Although George's father has since passed away, his mother resides in a retirement home in Chicago. We write and call and send Mother's Day cards. After all she is the mother of a HERO.

I had the pleasure of spending time with her in Fort Hood, Texas. It was there that the army presented an award for a mission that was unrecognized some 30 years earlier. George's Mom, along with my Dad and the remaining members of the helicopter crew proudly accepted this award. This I know was a proud day for George's Mom. It was a long time coming for the soldiers accepting it. I wish I could know the George my Dad knew, but I do feel I know him through Dad's stories. I hope to one day along with my Dad visit the mausoleum in Chicago where George was laid to rest.

I wanted to share this story on Memorial Day so that the soldiers of Vietnam know they are not forgotten. We appreciate all that you sacrificed for a war no one was behind.

A hero can be defined in many ways. To me my Dad is a hero. He fought for this country from 1965 to 1966 and today continues to support the troops with CARE packages and letters of encouragement. I am thankful my Dad made it home. I am grateful that he was able to open up and share stories of George with me and my brother's. So the saying is true. George's life was short but left a lasting impression.

George Gavaria will forever be remembered as Dad's FRIEND and our HERO.

Everything's a Story

by Andrea MacMullin

During last week's devastating flood, I received many phone calls from family in the Midwest as they watched national news depicting the plight of our area.

Luckily, I had only favorable news to tell. We were all safe, and our home was spared of any harm.

My Mother recalled seventy years ago when she was a small girl of two years living in Lowell. It was the time the last major flood impacted the area. Her own mother, an original "Mill Girl" was working in Downtown Lowell at one of the mills on second shift.

Word spread that the bridge my Grandmother needed to take to get home later that evening would be closing at midnight due to the threat of floodwaters rising, creating dangerous conditions on the bridge. At the time, it was the only bridge connecting Centerville where the family lived, to Downtown.

It was said my Grandmother told authorities she needed to get across that bridge to get home to her husband and two small children on Albion Street. It was also said she was the last one to get across before the bridge was closed, and made it safely home to her family. According to my Mother, the rising floodwaters took out the bridge later that night.

Weeks later as the water subsided, the wood plank bridge was again passable, with only ropes serving as side rails. One morning, my Grandfather left for work, and kissed his little girls good-bye. Unbeknownst to him, his eldest daughter, my Mother followed him to work.

She followed him across that same bridge that her own Mother scarcely made, it across weeks earlier, never once calling out to him, walking far enough behind for him not to notice.

It wasn't long before her Mother reported to the police that her two-year daughter was missing. Yes, they had found a little girl. But, the youngster would not tell them her name.

As my Grandmother arrived at the station, she found her daughter, still not talking, but sitting quietly with one of the officer's hats upon her head. For the second time, a family was reunited.

After hearing these stories, it occurred to me that not once, but twice, a mother and child at different times, but in the same location, were spared. Maybe it was an angel, maybe it was something else. But I believe it was something powerful that sent those floodwaters, and something powerful that watched out for them.

Veterans personal data

Dear Veterans,
I would like to share this information with you regarding the recent loss of veteran's personal data from the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA). The VA is establishing a toll-free number and website to provide further information to veterans and will be sending out a letter to as many of these veterans as can be located outlining the mishap and what can be done to minimize any negative effects on personal data. Veterans can go to www.firstgov.gov as well as www.va.gov/opa or call the toll-free number 1-800-FED-INFO (333-4636).

What a good guy

Dear Editor,
I would like to THANK the Wilmington Good Guy Committee for selecting me as this year's Good Guy. I'm sure there were many entries and I'm humbled they selected me over all the others. It was a great surprise and I was also humbled by such a large turnout and a wonderful evening. I'm very proud to be the recipient of such a wonderful award from our great town. I know it is a lot of work to put on such an event and on behalf of my family, Thank You!

Counsel 'rails' against New England Transrail proposal

(editor's note: the following letter was sent to the Surface Transportation Board in regard to the solid-waste transfer station being proposed for the Olin Chemical property on Eames Street in South Wilmington. It was written on behalf of the Town of Wilmington by Town Counsel and is being reprinted here at the request of Selectman Suzanne Sullivan.)

Dear Ms. Johnson-Ball:

As you know, we are counsel to the Town of Wilmington, Massachusetts ("Wilmington"). We submit this letter in response to the April 7, 2006 letter of Victoria Rutson, Chief, Section of Environmental Analysis ("SEA"), requesting submittal by today of "information on potential environmental impacts, resources or issues concerning" the proposal of New England Transrail, LLC ("NET") for a construction, acquisition and operation exemption that is pending before the Surface Transportation Board ("Board") as Finance Docket 34797 ("NET Proposal").

In its Reply to NET's Petition for Exemption in this proceeding, Wilmington raised the issues of whether or to what extent the Board has jurisdiction over the NET Proposal and whether state and local site assignment permitting for a solid waste facility are preempted by the Board's regulations in this case. Several other interested parties also have addressed these issues, including the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection ("MADEP"), the "Coalition Parties" (including the National Solid Wastes Management Association and Massachusetts Municipal Association), and the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection. The Coalition Parties recently petitioned the Board to delay any environmental analysis and to expedite consideration of the parties' replies, since a decision on jurisdictional issues would promote a more efficient environmental review or obviate the need for it. Wilmington concurs in that petition. As the Board has not yet acted on it, we submit the following comments without prejudice to Wilmington's position on these jurisdictional issues.

In support of our comments, we also incorporate by reference the many dozens of comment letters submitted by Wilmington's interested citizens, state and congressional representatives, and the Town itself in this proceeding and in proceedings related to NET's previous project proposal (Finance Docket 34391). Wilmington's submissions have included extensive comments of town officials on issues of water resources, public safety, traffic congestion, air and noise pollution, and the expert technical analyses of Geolnsight, Inc., Wilmington's consulting engineer for the contaminated Olin Chemical property that NET proposes to redevelop.

NET's proposals have been characterized by incremental but fundamental changes in the nature and scale of the project, repeated withholding of information essential to any sound evaluation of environmental impacts, and a persistent absence of critical data. See New England Transrail, LLC, Petition for Exemption, STB Finance Docket 34391 (STB served May 3, 2005) ("May 2005 Decision"). Indeed, the Board dismissed the prior NET petition due to incomplete environmental information, including information related to jurisdictional and preemption issues, and found that NET "was not forthcoming." See May 2005 Decision, at 4-5. This unusually checkered filing history, and continued gaps in critical information about the project's potential environmental impacts, necessitate a full Environmental Impact Statement ("EIS"). Even more than in the ordinary case, an EIS for the NET Proposal is necessary to ensure that thorough consideration is given to the full range of reasonably foreseeable environmental impacts, consistent with the National Environmental Policy Act, 42 U.S.C. § 4321 ("NEPA"). City of Grapevine v. DOT, 17 F.3d 1502, 1503-04 (D.C.Cir.), cert. denied, 513 U.S. 1043 (1994) (under NEPA, agency must take a "hard look" at environmental consequences of a decision before allowing a project to proceed).

Federal court decisions and the Board's enabling legislation make clear that an environmental assessment is not tantamount to an EIS but instead is to guide a decision whether to require an EIS. See Sierra Club v. Marsh, 769 F.2d 868, 875 (1st Cir. 1985); 49 CFR §1105.7(d). In this case, the Section of Environmental Assessment generated not only an Environmental Assessment ("EA") but also a Post-Environmental Assessment ("Post-EA") in connection with NET's prior proposal. Moreover, the Post-EA was invalidated because of NET's many factual omissions. This procedural history underscores the need for an EIS. Rehashing the Post-EA from the prior proceeding would not be appropriate or sufficient to satisfy the requirements of NEPA.

This is especially so because NET continues to modify the proposed project. The NET Proposal is substantially different from earlier project iterations. Among other changes, it proposes more rail spurs and significantly more excavation of the heavily contaminated soil at the Olin site. The Environmental Protection Agency ("EPA") cites this extensive excavation in particular as necessitating an EIS. See EPA Comments dated May 10, 2006 (proposing a delay in any review pending completion of relevant portions of a remedial investigation/feasibility study and urging SEA to require a full EIS). Such excavation and permanent foundations would impede the ongoing investigation and remediation of the site, despite NET's protestations to the contrary.

Under NEPA, it is not open to the SEA to rely on assurances of NET that the project would not impede investigation or remediation, or on any purported financial incentive of NET (cited in the Post-EA) to avoid such impairment in order to minimize CERCLA liability. Nor may the agency give NET the benefit of a doubt on any factual issue relevant to its analysis. To the contrary, as held in decisions cited by the Coalition Parties, when the determination whether a project would result in significant effects is a close call, an EIS should be prepared. Further, NEPA does not allow for a wait-and-see approach to judge potential impacts. The Post-EA would have accepted NET's suggestion to permit construction and operation of the rail and solid waste processing facility, subject to possibly removing or suspending portions of it if it later appeared to impede environmental cleanup. Where, as here, such environmental impacts are reasonably foreseeable, they must be assessed before action is taken on NET's Petition.

The NET Proposal would have another important collateral effect that has not yet been acknowledged. Even if the proposed construction and operation of thousands of feet of new rail lines, concrete foundations, subterranean vaults and huge sprung structures did not impede investigation and remediation - a scenario that is hard to conceive - they would create a new financial incentive for NET or Olin to place environmental remediation structures and operations elsewhere. In particular, such activities more likely would be sited on the remaining 20 acres of the Olin property that NET proposes to acquire (sometimes termed the "undeveloped area"). That area, which lies south of the South Ditch, is to be subject to a conservation restriction. The restriction was proposed by Olin and required by the Wilmington Conservation Commission in its June 2000 Order of Conditions. It was partial mitigation for the destruction of wetlands due to earlier remediation efforts for the overall site, since the destroyed wetlands could not be replicated. The NET Proposal thus almost certainly would degrade the environmental value of immediately adjacent land that is dedicated to be conserved in its natural state, insofar as that is compatible with the overall remediation activities (Notably, more intensive remediation on the ostensibly protected conservation area also would adversely impact Wilmington residents who live within 1300 feet of the site, since, as the Post-EA noted, many of them reside to the south of the Olin site. This also must be addressed if there is compliance with NEPA requirements.)

Wilmington reiterates its concerns with the proposed solid waste processing facility that NET proposes. Like Congress, Massachusetts courts have determined that solid waste processing and handling have the potential to pose serious threats to human safety and the environment. The courts consistently hold that such activities are inherently threatening, unless they are subject to prior site assignment review of the type required by applicable Massachusetts law. See M.G.L. c.111, § 150A and §150A 1/2, and 310 CMR §16.40. NET's insistence that site assignment review is preempted by STB regulations is mistaken. The parties have briefed this issue extensively in their replies to the NET Petition. However, pursuant to NEPA, environmental review that presumes preemption of the site assignment scheme must fully evaluate the implications that a failure to meet those state and local standards would have on human health and the environment. Either way, the NET Proposal cannot lawfully evade a detailed environmental impact review.

NEPA review requires consideration of a project's cumulative effects, including the effect of gradual increases in activities over time. NET has stated that it may "in the future" handle additional commodities, scale up its operations, or develop a break bulk facility on site, depending upon market conditions. The Post-EA identified a break-bulk operation and a possible connection to Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority ("MBTA") rail lines as scenarios that presented a risk of unknown environmental impacts. NET now has proposed an MBTA connection, though it still is unable to commit to a location for that connection. NEPA review mandates assessment of the environmental impacts of a break-bulk facility, like other contemplated incremental increases in the size or scope of the Proposal to which NET has not yet committed.

For all of the foregoing reasons, and those set forth in the referenced submissions, Wilmington implores the Board to require the submission of a full EIS to address the demonstrably high probability of significant impacts from the NET Proposal.

Thank you.
Daniel R. Deutsch

You can still help

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the Members of the St. William's Mens Club who ran the spaghetti supper on May 6, 2006 in support of the Tewksbury Community Pantry. Through their efforts and donations from many individuals and organizations in town we were able to raise over $1800 in support of the Food Pantry.

I have many people to thank but those I would most like to thank are the businesses and organizations that donated food and services. Those include: French's Restaurant and Catering Service
The Push Cart

Knights of Columbus

Tewksbury PAL
Without the help and support of these groups we would not have been able to provide these funds to the food pantry. Again, thanks to all that supported us for this worthy cause and best of luck to the Tewksbury Community Pantry.

Comments to the Surface Transportation Board

(editor's note: the following letter was sent to the Surface Transportation Board in regard to the solid-waste transfer station being proposed for the Olin Chemical property on Eames Street in South Wilmington. It is being reprinted here at the author's request.)

Dear Ms Ball:

Thank you for the opportunity to respond to the above referenced filing. Although I hold an elected position as a Selectman in Wilmington, I write this letter as an informed and concerned citizen, and not in my official capacity. I will leave the more technical arguments to our legal and environmental consultants.

I wish to comment on three crucial issues raised in the NET petition for exemption: Deliberately incomplete and segmented information; Jurisdictional issues which have been continually raised in the past filing and current filing; Serious hazardous and uncharacterized current environmental conditions and inevitable future impacts/ "NIMBY"ism.

Deliberately Incomplete and Segmented Information

It is well documented that NET's past filings were incomplete and had changed from the original filing. This was not accidental. NET's deliberate attempt to hide the solid waste handling component of this operation undermines their credibility. This current filing also appears to be masking the intended operation, and leaving one to wonder what is behind door number two.

I draw your attention to the most recent site plan submitted in the filing by NET. NET claims trains will enter via the north and exit via the south. If this is true then why is there a runaround track dead ended at the southern most region of the site? It is my understanding a runaround track is:

"A pair of switches arranged on parallel tracks in yard ladder that lets the engine get by the train it just pulled in."

Why is this runaround positioned in the opposite direction NET claims the trains will be traveling?

Why is there a runaround in the middle of the undeveloped portion of the site?

Why does the track just dead end?

Why is the connection to the MBTA line not shown on the site plan?

Will there really ever be a connection to the MBTA line?

How can a full environmental review be done without knowing the scope of the whole project? In addition, the proposed rail line at the southern portion goes through jurisdictional wetlands.

There is also mention in the filing that this operation will service New England Resins. New England Resins directly abuts the southern portion of the Olin site in Woburn and is located along the MBTA rail line. It is also my understanding there is an abandoned rail spur on that property. I recently visited this area and New England Resins appears to be abandoned. So what is the real deal here? And why isn't it being disclosed in this filing? I ask the STB to require NET to fully disclose all connections to existing and abandoned rail lines whether they are or are not on the Olin site, as required under the STB regulations. I also ask that if New England Resins is going to be part of the operations that this also be fully disclosed.

In addition I ask that the STB require an in-depth analysis of the impacts the rail lines will have on the migration of contaminants via the path of the rail infrastructure. It is a well established fact that rail lines aid in the migration of surface water contaminants. Flocculated Chromium, accumulating at the surface from the billions of gallons of chromium that had been discharged to the unlined lagoons is of major concern.

Jurisdictional Issues

There are several jurisdictional issues with in the NET's petition for exemption. They are as follows:

Does the STB have jurisdiction over the siting and operations of solid waste transfer facilities?

Is this operation really subject to exemption?

Is NET really a rail carrier as defined under the STB's regulatory requirements?

Is this really a rail operation, with public access?

Does this contribute to the railroad infrastructure?

Will NET really ever connect with the MBTA line?

Or is NET's proposal simply a smoke screen to what they actually are, which is a private freight yard operating private spurs designed to sort and bale various types of solid waste, without regulatory oversight, giving them an unfair market advantage?

Because most of the above questions have been raised in comments by several parties, these issues must be addressed first and foremost by the STB. These concerns are not only shared by those in Wilmington, and by our neighbors in Woburn, who will also be effected by these operations, but for our country as a whole. This case is being watched by a wide spectrum of the political and private sector. This requested exemption has evolved into a precedent setting case and could well set back environmental protection laws designed to safe guard public health and the environment. State, local, and federal environmental protection laws have been legislatively enacted to regulate the handling of waste from cradle to grave for good reason. RCRA clearly states that waste can not be removed from one segment of the population to, in turn, burden another segment of the population. An un-regulated solid waste transfer station would do just that, unfairly burden the segment of the population in which it is sited. This has already occurred in exempted facilities in New Jersey and New York.

The National Solid Waste Management Association, the Solid Waste Association of North America, and its Massachusetts Chapter, the Integrated Waste Service Association, The Construction Materials Recycling Association, the New Bedford Waste Services, LLC, and the Massachusetts Municipal Association, (the "Coalition Parties") have filed a petition for Expedited Consideration. I urge the STB to consider this petition. If the STB does not deliberate on this issue as requested, then I respectfully request that the SEA conduct the most rigorous environmental review allowed within their jurisdiction.

Environmental Issues

I understand the benefit STB-granted exemptions bestows to actual rail carrier services. I understand and know how essential it is for fair and adequate railroad construction and operations. Unfortunately, accusations of "NIMBY"ism" have been raised against some of the opponents of NET's exemption status and the proposed project. It has been claimed that the "NIMBY" response to this filing reflects the clear purpose and legislative intent of exemption status. This accusation is nothing more than smoke and mirrors and couldn't be further from the truth. Opposition to this filing isn't about railroads or rail service. This is about NET using the STB as a catalyst to usurp state legislative authority by overstepping legislative intent given to the STB to further rail service. It is no wonder Mr. Klempner is attempting to sidestep the regulatory process, considering his history of failed attempts for similar operations in New York and New Jersey. Considering how NET has handled the filings regarding this project, one must conclude it is not the regulatory process that is Mr. Klempner's enemy, but he himself. It is fairly obvious that NET feels they have a much better chance at the federal level, where they have more "connections" in higher places than at the State level. This ill-conceived attempt to sidestep state jurisdiction will improperly site a solid waste processing plant, which no one has clear authority over, on a severely contaminated, un-characterized, hazardous waste site. A hazardous waste site that has not achieved a state no significant health risk, has recently been inducted into the EPA Superfund program, and is responsible for impacting many privately-owned properties and has indefinitely shut down the Town of Wilmington's water supply wells in the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer. Mr. Klempner appears to prefer attempting to set up shop in historically environmentally degraded and impacted areas like the Olin site and then accusing the impacted population of being NIMBY's.

Both Wilmington and Woburn are far from NIMBY's. And anyone who lives in this area knows well how much Wilmington and Woburn have sacrificed for public benefit which has resulted in more than a half century of environmental abuse. We not only have sacrificed more than our fair share to serve the public benefit in the past, we continue to do so in the present.

For instance, Wilmington, before the economic down turn, employed slightly more people with in its borders than the residential population. Not bad for a town of 22,000. In addition, we have approximately 7 miles of rail lines comprising three separate service lines, the Lowell line, the Haverhill line and the Wildcat line (Boston Maine) along with 2 public train stations. Quite impressive for a small community approximately 3 miles across and 4 miles wide. Wilmington, which along with Woburn, is a predominately blue collar town, also bears the brunt of traffic burdens due to our proximity to major highways. We have "F" rated intersections at virtually every main road juncture. This will only be compounded by the additional truck traffic associated with this proposal. Please note no real truck route has been established yet for this project. According to SCORE CARD we have some of the worst air quality in the country, attributed to industrial, automotive, and incinerator emissions. We harbor more than our fair share. How ironic our lack of affluence, our contributions to industrial land uses and the benefits these uses give to the public at large, coupled with yesteryears environmental abuses, has left us vulnerable and an easier mark for NET and their so called greater good. For NET to hire one of the most powerful, highest paid, affluent, politically connected law firms in the country, possibly the world, to aid them in the attempt to designate us NIMBY's is almost laughable if it wasn't so detestable.

Both Wilmington and Woburn, according to the Department of Public Health website, not only have higher than expected adult cancer rates, we are also the subjects of cancer studies of our children within the census tracks served by public water supplies from this industrialized area. Woburn's "Civil Action" and childhood cancer study is well known. A link was established between the superfund sites in this area and the now inactive Woburn water supply. Wilmington's childhood cancer study is on-going and has been since 1999. Although no conclusions have been made yet, what we do know, is we have lost the production of our water supply from the unrestrained, uncharacterized contamination emanating from the Olin site. There are 5 landfills within a mile radius of the Olin site: three consolidated landfills from the Industrial Plex superfund sites, the Olin landfill, the Woburn Landfill, and the Maple Meadow landfill. This area is already saturated with contamination well beyond what it can absorb with the addition of the multiple Tier Classified hazardous waste sites.

If ever there was an inappropriate site for a solid waste processing facility, the Olin site is surely it. The current situation has been caused by unlawfulness and the lack of regulation, certainly not NIMBY'ism. Once again, it is not about a railroad, it is about the environmental inequities that have occurred in my community, proposed to be compounded by another unregulated solid waste activity under the guise of a rail carrier operation. These inequities should not occur in anyone's backyard. No un-regulated solid waste activity should be sanctioned by any government on any of its people regardless of race, color or economic status.

If someone could honestly demonstrate how such a mandate to exempt the operation of unregulated trash and solid waste transfer station, on an uncharacterized superfund site, a stones throw of residential districts, within a water supply recharge area, serves the public benefit, then I will concede my position. This proposal serves no greater public good. The proponents motive is profit, while claiming public benefits. Whatever public benefits that will be realized by this operation will be overshadowed by the precedent it stakes out for deregulating the siting of solid waste processing facilities by a federal government entity without the regulatory jurisdiction to enforce compliance with environmental regulations. In Wilmington's and Woburn's case it will allow the continued environmental abuse of an area that has already suffered from decades of un-regulated and unrestrained chemical and solid waste disposal. To continue this trend would not only undermine efforts of discovery and remediation, it would also weaken the legislative intent for states to site solid waste activities in appropriate locations. This is clearly a step backwards, not only for us, but for the nation. The coalition to stop this abuse of the exemption purpose is growing as more people all over the country are better understanding that it isn't about railroads, it's about the deregulation of a state's authority to protect public health and the environment for private profit. No matter how NET's high powered lawyers slice, dice or bale it, the real intent here is not to service the rail industry, but to deregulate state and local solid waste handling regulations for a chosen few. This was not the regulatory intent of the exemption status and leaves our nation's people at risk.

Sincerely,
Suzanne M. Sullivan

Murphy endorses Gabrieli

Wilmington State Rep. says support for Gabrieli is growing

BURLINGTON - State Rep. Charles Murphy, D-Burlington, endorses Chris Gabrieli in his campaign for governor, joining an expanding group of supporters across the state.

"Chris led our effort to expand after-school programs. He has created thousands of jobs," Murphy said. "I think he is the best candidate to win in November and return Democratic values to the corner office."

Murphy's endorsement adds to the growing momentum of the Gabrieli campaign. Across the state, supporters are lining up with the Gabrieli campaign, creating a grassroots organization that continues to strengthen across the Commonwealth.

Elsie M. Goss

Retired seamstress at Simon's and Hoffman's; 82

TEWKSBURY - Elsie M. (Giles) Goss, 82, a former resident of Tewksbury and avid Bingo player, died Thursday morning, May 18, 2006, at the Monadnock Community Hospital in Peterborough, NH, after a lengthy illness.

She was born in Boston, on August 17, 1923, a daughter of the late Lawrence and Mildred (Shuby) Giles, and raised in Wilmington. She moved to Tewksbury, where she resided the greater part of her life, before moving to Rindge, NH, in 2002 to live with her daughter's family because of health issues.

She worked as a seamstress at the Simmons Mattress company in Medford for more than 27 years, and later worked at DuPont company in Billerica, before her second retirement from Hoffman's Furniture manufacturing in Lowell, ten years ago.

She was well known in Bingo circles throughout the Tewksbury area, was an accomplished Crochet crafter, recently completing the task of afghan blankets for each of her twenty two great grandchildren, a former candlepin bowler, and a passionate Red Sox fan.

She is survived by four children and their spouses, Raymond Goss Jr. and his wife Marianne (Borges) of Tewksbury, Linda McNamara and her husband Larry of Newport, NH, Cheryl Marsh and her husband Wayne Marsh Sr of Rindge, NH. Nancy VonKahle and her husband Michael VonKahle Sr of Claremont, NH; twenty one grandchildren; three sisters, Dorothy McGillick of Tewksbury, Mildred Nadolny of Burlington, Betty Roy of Fla; a brother, Robert Giles of Fla; two sisters-in-law, Jeanette "Sis" Giles of Pepperell, Marjorie Giles of Tewksbury; numerous nieces and nephews; and her 'best friend' Muffy.

She was also sister of the late Larry Giles, Norman Giles, and Ernest Giles.

Her funeral Service will be held Monday, May 22, at 11:30 a.m. in the Tewksbury Funeral Home, corner of Dewey and Main Sts. (Rte 38) Tewksbury Center, phone (800 in MA or 978) 851-2950. Burial will follow at Tewksbury Cemetery. Visiting hours are Sunday 4 to 7 p.m. in the funeral home. Memorial to the American Lung Assn., P.O. Box 265, Burlington, MA 01803 will be appreciated www.tewksburyfuneralhome.com <<http://www.tewksburyfuneralhome.com>>

Susan A. Larry

Antiques dealer, Gulf War Veteran, formerly of Tewksbury; 36

NEW IPSWICH, NH - Susan Anuporn Larry, age 36, an Internet Antiques dealer, died unexpectedly, Sunday evening, May 21, 2006, at her New Ipswich home, from an apparent heart attack. She was the wife of Kenneth Burke, with whom she had celebrated a 2nd wedding anniversary this past December 17th.

She was born in Lowell, MA, on December 21, 1969, the daughter of Winfield Larry, Jr. and Anuporn (Chaiboonsri) Larry, who reside in Lowell. She was raised in Lowell, and graduated from the Greater Lowell Regional Vocational Technical High School. She had lived in New Ipswich for the past 3 years.

She served in the first Gulf War, Operation Desert Storm, as a Spec. 4, assigned to the Military Police division of the Army's 1st Infantry Division.

Since moving to New Ipswich, she had become an Internet Antiques trader, and was a former member of the New Ipswich Historical Society.

Besides her husband and parents, she is survived by two step-children, Rebekah Burke of Dracut, MA, and Nicholas

Burke of Manchester, NH; two step grandchildren, Shya and Gavin; and many relatives and friends in both Lowell and New Ipswich.

Her funeral will be held Friday, May 26, at 9:00 a.m. from the Tewksbury Funeral Home, corner of Dewey and Main Sts. (Rte 38) Tewksbury Center, phone (800 in MA or 978) 851-2950. Her funeral Mass will be celebrated Friday at 10:00 a.m. in St. William's Church, 1351 Main ST. (Rte 38) Tewksbury. Burial will follow at Tewksbury Cemetery. Visiting hours Thursday evening, 4 to 7 p.m. in the funeral home. Memorials to the Greyhound Placement of New Hampshire, P.O. Box 58, New Boston, NH 03070, will be appreciated. ## Bruce Thomas Murray

Formerly of Tewksbury, sports specialist and former Chef; 39

SURF SIDE BEACH, S.C. - Bruce Thomas Murray, age 39, a specialist in sports memorabilia, died unexpectedly on Tuesday, May 16, 2006.

He was born in Boston, on August 23, 1966, the son of the late Thomas and Elsie (DuBois) Murray, and had lived in Tewksbury for more than 30 years. He graduated from Shawsheen Valley Technical High School's culinary program and worked in area restaurants throughout his life. He moved to the Myrtle Beach area four years ago.

He turned his hobby and passion for professional sports into his occupation, and left the restaurant business to become an employee of Baseball 17 in Myrtle Beach, a collectable and sports memorabilia store. Even though he had left New England, he retained his passion for Boston's professional sports, especially the Red Sox.

He is survived by two sisters and brothers-in-law, Cheryl Lockhart and her husband Robert of Nashua, NH, Lynn Laroche and her husband Dennis of Hampstead, NH; four nieces and nephews, Korey Cadigan, Jay and Alexis Lockhart all of Nashua, and Chad Laroche of Hampstead.

Relatives and friends will be received Wednesday from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Tewksbury Funeral Home, corner of Dewey and Main Sts (Rte 38) Tewksbury Center, phone (800 in MA or 978) 851-2950. ## Shawsheen Tech receives national recognition

Student Viewbook earns gold medal

BILLERICA - Shawsheen Valley Technical High School's Student Viewbook has earned a gold medal in the 21st Annual Admissions Advertising Awards - the largest educational advertising awards competition in the country.

The newly designed, 32-page publication placed first among Secondary Schools as judged by a panel of admissions' marketers, advertising creative directors, marketing and advertising professionals and the editorial board of Admissions Marketing Report - sponsors of the competition.

"Instead of hiring an outside agency, we used the talent right here at Shawsheen," said Community Services Director Roger Bourgeois, the Viewbook's Project Coordinator. "Students from our Commercial Art and Design program along with our faculty members from the Graphic Arts, English Language Arts and Commercial Art and Design programs worked collaboratively and collegially with the entire staff to produce a Viewbook that stands out as the best of the best. I am most appreciative of everyone's efforts and join the AMR in commending their hard work."

Shawsheen Tech 2005 graduate Brian Babineau of Wilmington handled design and composition duties while classmates Brittany Helmer and Michelle Gilbert, both of Tewksbury, (along with Burlington Studios) took photos. Commercial Art and Design Instructor Mike Azevedo served as Project Manager with Graphic Arts Instructor Timothy Broadrick and English Instructor Kevin Bloom contributing with pre press and writing respectively.

The Shawsheen Tech Viewbook is used primarily as an information source for perspective students as well as local residents, officials and businesses.

Comcast recognizes Wilmington student for community service and leadership

WILMINGTON - Jennifer Maio of Wilmington has been recognized as one of Comcast's Leaders and Achievers* with a $1,000 grant from The Comcast Foundation for outstanding commitment to community service. Jennifer, who graduates this spring from Wilmington High School, will attend New England College in Henniker, New Hampshire in the fall.

The Leaders and Achievers Scholarship Program, funded through The Comcast Foundation, recognizes high school seniors for exemplary community service, leadership skills, positive attitude and academic achievement. In 2006, the program will grant over $1.7 million, recognizing 1,728 students attending high schools in Comcast communities across the country. This year, Comcast recognized 87 young people from Massachusetts. Since its inception in 2000, the program has awarded more than $5.8 million in scholarships.

"Jennifer Maio has demonstrated a strong commitment to the people of her community by performing volunteer child care and as a tutor and teacher for younger children," said Paul D'Arcangelo, Vice President of Comcast's Metro Boston

Region. "Comcast is proud to recognize her along with all of the other outstanding recipients of the 2006 Leaders and Achievers scholarship grants. Their achievements embody Comcast's dedication to making a difference in the communities we serve."

The Leaders and Achievers* Scholarship Program is managed by Scholarship Program Administrators - an independent, not-for-profit organization that manages corporate and corporate foundation scholarship programs. For more information on the Leaders and Achievers Scholarship Program, visit www.comcast.com/scholarships.

Annual Fishing Derby June 3

The Wilmington Recreation Department is sponsoring its Annual Fishing Derby at Silver Lake on Saturday, June 3, 2006. This event is for youth and non-professional adults.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. at the bathhouse. The Derby will run from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. Prizes will be awarded in the Heaviest Bass,

Middlesex Partnerships for Youth

WINCHESTER - On May 18, 2006, Middlesex Partnerships for Youth, Inc. (MPY), held their bi-annual Board of Directors meeting. During the meeting, MPY reviewed events held during FY06, current projects and goals for the future, recognized retiring Board member Winchester Police Chief Joseph Perritano, and welcomed two new members to the Board.

"This year, MPY directly trained more school staff members and public safety personnel than in any year before," said Middlesex District Attorney and MPY Board Chairperson Martha Coakley. "MPY continues to present excellent trainings in response to community needs throughout Middlesex, and continues to bring police departments, schools, and fire departments to the table to engage in vital dialogue and ensure the safety of our youth. I am extremely proud of the work MPY does, and I look forward to watching the future growth of MPY and the exceptional accomplishments seen year after year."

During the meeting, MPY Executive Director Mary Sullivan presented a report on FY06 events hosted by MPY. During FY06, MPY trained a total of 4,000 school personnel, parents, students, police, fire, and social service providers through the provision of 53 in-service trainings and 21 full-day conferences and events. The theme for FY06 was "Creating and Sustaining a Safe and Respectful School Climate," with the most requested in-service trainings in the areas of Internet safety and bullying. Trainings throughout FY06 covered a wide range of topics within this theme, including self-injury, angry and oppositional adolescents, underage drinking, conflict resolution, body image, and truancy, among others.

During FY06, MPY and the Middlesex District Attorney's Office developed "Stand Up: Working Together to Stop Bullying," an educational video and curriculum. This 20-minute video is the latest in a series of educational videos produced by the Middlesex District Attorney's Office, and was created to help communities recognize and understand bullying and create solutions to address bullying in a school setting. The video features professionals in the fields of education, psychology, law enforcement, and social services, as well as middle school students, all dissecting the issue of bullying from a wide range of perspectives. "Stand Up" was distributed to 26 local cable access channels and all six major Boston network stations. Since its release, the video has been purchased by over 60 agencies and organizations throughout the Commonwealth.

Also during FY06, MPY presented SECURE (Safe and Effective Community Understanding and Response to Emergencies) VIII, an annual multi-disciplinary training conference for police, fire, and school personnel on school-based emergency response. The full-day conference included workshops created to train participants in how to address effective emergency management in school crises, focusing on mental health and the recovery phase.

The Board of Directors also recognized the service of retiring member, Winchester Police Chief Joseph Perritano. Chief Perritano has served as an officer with the Winchester Police Department since 1964, and has served on the MPY Board since 2001. The Board recognized Chief Perritano's years of service to MPY, and presented him with a plaque.

The Board also welcomed two new members: Patrick Schettini, Jr., the Superintendent of Reading Public Schools, and Maynard Suffredini, Jr., the Superintendent of Wakefield Public Schools. Suffredini also currently serves on the Superintendents Program Advisory Committee (SPAC), responsible for program development and planning for MPY.

Middlesex Partnerships for Youth, Inc. is a non-profit organization originally established in 1988 by the Middlesex District Attorney's Office and ten school districts to foster communication on school-related legal issues relating to substance abuse and violence. Through Project Alliance, MPY's primary initiative, the non-profit provides prevention and intervention resources, as well as training and programming to Middlesex school districts and communities using a combination of educational outreach, technical support, and community-based strategy development to address a variety of youth health and safety issues. For more information on Middlesex Partnerships for Youth, Inc. and Project Alliance, please visit www.projectalliance.org.

The Board of Directors of Middlesex Partnerships, for Youth, Inc. meets bi-annually to discuss their on-going programs and continued outreach. The most recent meeting took place May 18, 2006, at the Winchester Police Department. The MPY Board is:

Martha Coakley - Middlesex District Attorney, MPY Board Chair

Paul Andrews - Director of Professional Development, Massachusetts Association of School Superintendents

Karla Baehr - Superintendent, Lowell Public Schools
Sheldon Berman - Superintendent, Hudson Public Schools

Kathy Bull - Perkins School for the Blind (Watertown)

Eleanor Doak - Director of Educational Quality Improvement, The Victor School (Acton)

Mrs. Larcom, Lowell Mills Boardinghouse Keeper

The Tewksbury Public Library will host a living history performance titled "Mrs. Larcom, Lowell Mills Boardinghouse Keeper" on Wednesday, June 7 at 7:00 pm, when Kate Carney, in costume and character as Mrs. Lois Larcom will share and interact with listeners in an historical role-playing performance set in 1843. Learn about the area's mill history at this fascinating depiction of a famous Lowell woman. There is no admission charge for this presentation, which will be held in the public library's first floor meeting room.

Step back in time to the Lawrence Corporation in 1843. Mrs. Larcom is proud of her mill girl boarders. The factory girls work hard to earn money and to send some of it home while attending classes and lectures. They must live in boardinghouses to remain respectable, and in their spare time, they publish their own literary magazine, "The Lowell Offering".

After being lured to Lowell by the promise of a living wage, the mill girls' pay is now dwindling, and they are working thirteen-hour days in dangerous, unhealthy conditions. The girls think things are going down hill fast. To make matters worse, accidents happen almost every day. Some of the factory girls are protesting, but those who do, lose their jobs. Things are changing in Lowell, but not for the better. Dare Mrs. Larcom speak up?

Listeners exchange questions and answers with this homey housemother who asks, "What is happening to the promise of Lowell?" Kate Carney presents a spell-binding story as fresh as today's news headlines.

Pick up a free ticket for this performance at the Reference Desk, or call 978-640-4490 ext. 207 for more information. This program is limited to 60 people.

Kate Carney, storyteller, coach, and workshop leader performs "Heroic Women You Can Talk To" characters in libraries, schools and museums throughout New England. Kate founded "Heroic Women You Can Talk To" educational theater in 1993 to bring living history alive. She was an actor-director for 30 years, performing in Boston and New York theatres, in films, and on network television. She has directed on Broadway and trained theatre companies in France and Israel. Carney also directed and taught at Brandeis, Smith, and other colleges.

The public library's web page, www.tewksburypl.org, is updated on a regular basis and contains a wealth of information. Check out the site for holiday closing schedules, changes in hours of operation, news of upcoming events and other services.

Information on Coping with Flood Damage

Thanks to Museum Pass Donors

Thanks to the financial support of following organizations, the Wilmington Memorial Library is able to provide Museum Passes to our library patrons:

Wilmington Sons of Italy funds the New England Aquarium Pass.

Wilmington Elementary School PACS fund the Children's Museum Pass and the Discovery Museum Pass.

The Wilmington Garden Club funds the Garden in the Woods pass.

The Wilmington Arts Council funds the Boston Museum of Fine Arts pass and the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum pass.

The Wilmington Community Fund funds the Museum of Science Pass.

The Friends of the Library fund Zoo New England Pass (Franklin Park Zoo and the Stone Zoo), the Peabody Essex Museum Pass and the Roger Williams Park Zoo pass. Call the library at 978-658-2967 to reserve any of the above museum passes.

Information on Coping with Flood Damage

If you are a homeowner whose home had some flood damage, the Michigan State University Extension's website on home maintenance and repair provides some helpful tips for cleaning up and drying out your home. The easiest way to access this information is to go the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium's list of websites www.mvl.org and click on Internet and then select "Consumer" from a list of topics. Click on "home maintenance and repair," then the letter "F." There is a list of topics under "Flood" including "coping with flood odor," sanitizing flooded laundry equipment, and "drying walls after a flood."

The American Institute of Architects also has some helpful procedures to follow on its website at <http://www.aia.org/liv/disaster/floodproce>.

Mr. Kim Concert

Preschool children are invited to attend this fun, interactive show of music, puppets, and magic on Thursday, June 1st at 10 a.m. Tickets for the event are free and may be reserved in person or by calling the Children's Room. Sponsored by the Family Foundations Network, a program funded by the Massachusetts Board of Early Education and Care. The information presented does not necessarily reflect the views of the Board or the Network.

Children's Book Discussion Group

Lionboy: The Truth by Zizou Corder was chosen by kids ages nine and older for their discussion on Friday, June 2nd at 3:30 p.m. The Truth is the final book in the popular Lionboy trilogy. It continues the adventures of catspinner Charlie Ashanti who he is kidnapped and struggles to topple the wicked corpocracy. Copies of the book may be reserved by visiting or calling the Children's Room at (978) 694-2098. Drop-in for discussion, snacks, and a door prize provided by the Friends of the Library.

Part-time Job Opening

The Wilmington Memorial Library has a job opening for a part-time library circulation assistant whose primary responsibility is working at the library's circulation desk providing a variety of services to the public with a positive customer service demeanor. Tasks include, but are not limited to checking in and out materials, registering library patrons for library cards, and processing interlibrary loan. Other duties include answering the telephone, reserving museum passes, shelving library material, and processing new material. Qualifications: The applicant must enjoy working with the public in a busy environment. High school diploma and general knowledge of computers required. Previous library experience and/or advanced education are a plus. Schedule: Average 15 hours per week year round includes some morning, afternoon and evening shifts. Winter schedule includes regular Saturday hours in rotation. Scheduling flexibility and reliability are essential. Physical requirements: Ability to reach and bend required to shelve books. Must be able to stand for extended periods of time, be strong enough to carry books weighing up to twenty pounds and push a cart full of books. Salary: $9.00 per hour $10.05 as of July 1, 2006. Applications: Send completed application with resume to Michael Cairns, Town Manager, 121 Glen Road, Wilmington, MA 01887. Applications are available at Wilmington Town Hall and at the Wilmington Memorial Library. Position available until filled.

Memorial Day

The library will be closed on Memorial Day, Monday, May 29th.

NSWMA Testifies on Problems with Unregulated Waste Management Facilities on Rail Properties

Washington, DC (May 22, 2006) - The National Solid Waste Management Association (NSWMA), a trade association representing for-profit companies in North America that provide solid waste collection, recycling, and disposal services in all 50 states, has submitted comments before the U.S. House of Representatives' Subcommittee on Railroads examining serious problems associated with unregulated waste management facilities on railroad property.

"When waste is sorted, recyclables separated, and materials shredded, baled and otherwise processed or dumped on the ground and then picked-up and loaded into a container, they are 'solid waste management facilities" that are strictly regulated at the state and local level," said Bruce Parker, President and CEO of NSWMA. "These same activities are taking place at railroad facilities, but are unregulated because of claims of exclusive jurisdiction under the federal Surface Transportation Board, which does not have a regulatory program in place."

"Unregulated waste processing facilities at railroads threaten the public health and the environment," said Steve Changaris, NSWMA's Northeast Regional Manager, who has been managing two broad and diverse coalitions opposing these sham waste management facilities, consisting of municipal and county governments, solid waste authorities, private sector waste companies, and trade associations, and are supported by state environmental authorities, attorneys general, political leaders, and others. "By excluding these railroad facilities from permitting, we undermine the public trust over proper waste management."

"NSWMA does not oppose the use of railroads to transport solid waste, only unregulated waste management facilities," said Parker. "In addition to the imminent public health and environmental danger from these facilities, allowing these railroad facilities to go unregulated creates an unfair and anticompetitive environment for legitimate solid waste management companies who pay the high cost of regulatory programs and often must wait three to four years, if not longer, to receive a permit."

Tewksbury Rotary Club recognizes Top Ten Students

Rachel Cain

Rachel is the daughter of Linda Cain and Thomas Cain. Rachel has been a motivated and open-minded student during her four years at Tewksbury Memorial High School. A two-year National Honor Society member, Rachel has maintained high honors for all four years. With dedication, leadership and heart, Rachel proudly contributed to the Redmen athletics on the Winter and Spring Track Team as Captain. She is President of ECHO (Earth, Culture and Humanity Organization). Rachel contributes significantly to the community by volunteering as a counselor at Camp Sunshine (a camp for children with life threatening illnesses) and at the Life is Good Pumpkin Festival in Boston. She has worked at CVS Pharmacy for the past two years. Rachel is a recipient of several Renaissance Gold and Silver cards. Enjoying her involvement in the International Club, Rachel traveled to France this spring as part of the French Exchange Program.

College acceptances include: University of New Hampshire, UMass Amherst, Clark University, Emmanuel College, Salem State and University of Vermont. Next fall, Rachel plans to attend University of New Hampshire with an anticipated major in Psychology.

Keri Corsetti

Keri is the daughter of Lisa and Steven Corsetti. She was a focused and committed student throughout high school. A two-year National Honor Society member, Keri has been recognized on the Principal's List and has received Renaissance Gold cards (high honors) every term. She is Vice President of ECHO (Earth, Culture and Humanity Organization). Keri has been active in many extracurricular programs, namely the Math Team and DECA (a marketing association for students). She is a recipient of the Middlesex Women's Club Scholarship Award. A lover of Dance, Keri has taken lessons at Dance Expressions for several years and has participated in numerous dance recitals. During her time as a Redman, Keri was a member of the track and Field team. Keri contributes significantly to the community by volunteering at the Tewksbury Food Pantry and for the International Coastal Cleanup Day. She has performed peer tutoring in Math. Keri is in her third year of employment at the Market Basket as an Assistant Front End Manager and has really enjoyed her time working there. She has also worked at Mac's Dairy Farm. She participated in the Walk for Hunger fundraiser for three years in a row.

College acceptances include: Bentley College, Northeastern University, Bryant University and UMass Amherst. Next fall, Keri plans to attend Bentley College with a possible major in Finance.

Brendon Cotteau

Brendon, the proud son of Gloria and William Cotteau was committed to the high school from the moment he entered as a freshman. Throughout the years, he was heavily involved in the drama program, with a most recent leading role in the spring musical production of Grease. He is a recipient of several Renaissance Gold cards. Among the awards he has received is the National Latin Exam Silver Medal. He played Varsity Golf and Junior Varsity Hockey. Brendon enjoys playing the guitar. A two-year National Honor Society member, Brendon has valued his involvement in the Model United Nations, DECA (a marketing association for students), and JCL (Junior Classical League). He is most proud of what he has been able to give back to his community. He spent many hours volunteering as a youth hockey referee, participated in the Walk for Hunger, and has taken great satisfaction in tutoring fellow students. ## A sticky situation

Fisher wandered too close to, what appeared to be, puddles of water in between the piles of dirt. He quickly began to sink up to his calves, but with the assistance of his friends, he was freed. As he climbed up and out, however, he slipped back down and began again to sink - this time midway up his thighs.

According to Fire Chief Daniel Stewart, the torrential rains of the previous several days created unstable conditions.

His friends, not comprehending the severity of the situation, continued to try to extract their friend for nearly 45 minutes before the Wilmington Fire Department responded to the scene at approximately 6:30 p.m. The emergency crews determined that Fisher was continuing to sink at a slow pace during the rescue efforts. They stabilized his position with a ladder as depicted in the accompanying photograph.

Firefighters battled the muddy conditions with pails, pumps, and shovel, and were eventually able to free Fisher.

According to Mary Jo Forte, mother of one of the youths involved and witness to the event, Fisher had been submerged for as long as an hour and a half.

"He was shivering to the point of not being able to speak," Forte said. "He did manage to say thank-you to his rescuers. I heard him say thank-you. I also thanked them, as did his other friends. The kids used poor judgment in being there, as well as in the type of activities they were engaging in."

According to Stewart, Fisher exhibited signs of hypothermia and was transported to Winchester Hospital for monitoring. He was released that evening.

Town Counsel

these open session negotiations, Newhouse did not believe that Wilmington held a monopoly on inefficiencies in the relationship. He and DeRensis went back and forth throughout the session citing various inefficiencies perpetrated by both sides. At one point, Selectman Suzanne Sullivan quoted from Wilmington's 2002 Annual Report to rebut fellow Selectman Newhouse' assertions that the town was currently spending too much on legal services.

In 2002, Newhouse served as Wilmington's town counsel. Within the 2002 Annual Report, Newhouse reported that his office spent approximately 1,950 hours on town business.

Sullivan estimated that DeRensis had spent approximately 1,800 hours, so far in fiscal year 2006 with one month left to go in the contract.

"So for you to sit there and accuse Town Counsel of padding the time, when you yourself said that you spent in the Town of Wilmington in 2002, without Olin, without Maple Meadow, and without New England Transrail, 1,950 hours," Sullivan said. "But you're telling Town Counsel that they're padding and they're numbers are bogus?"

According to Sullivan, Newhouse was doing nothing more than political grandstanding.

Newhouse clarified that he did not accuse DeRensis' firm, Deutsch/Williams, of accounting for hours that did not exist.

"What I said was, what I mean, and what I have the facts to back up, is that a number of those hours were driven by inefficiencies at Deutsch/Williams. What I do not accept is that the Town of Wilmington has cost them $70,000 in retainer services," Newhouse said. "I'm not calling anyone a liar and I'm not calling anyone a thief."

Each of the selectmen, and DeRensis, agreed that the legal implications relating to the environmental issues facing the Olin Chemical property, the Maple Meadow Landfill, and the New England Transrail proposal - dubbed the Big Three by selectmen - were unpredictable. Newhouse motioned for a fixed fee agreement for $200,000, excluding the Big Three.

"If I was in a standard negotiation, I would have started way lower than $200,000, but I'm a realist and I don't see that flying," Newhouse said. "If anyone on this board thinks $200,000 is too high, vote it down and start lower."

Selectman Michael McCoy agreed that $200,000 for a contract that excluded the Big Three sounded steep.

"I think you'd jump on that in a heartbeat," McCoy said to DeRensis.

DeRensis, however, was not interested in such an arrangement.

"I couldn't accept that," DeRensis said. "We don't want to get paid a dime more than we earn."

DeRensis told the board that his firm was not interested in potentially getting paid for more time than they put in.

"If we work more, we want to get paid for it," DeRensis said. "Pay for what you use and use what you pay for. Why should we get a free $100,000 of taxpayer money?"

The motion failed by a vote of 3 to 2 with Newhouse and Selectman Charles Fiore in the minority.

McCoy followed with a motion to enter into the same contract as the previous year, with no raise in the hourly rate. The motion passed by a vote of 4 to 1 with Newhouse as the lone dissenter.

well-treated than I have been. The School community and the community at-large have done more for me than anyone could ever deserve or even imagine. I hope that by doing my job with enthusiasm and love for the teaching profession, I have been able to return some of their many kindnesses."

McAlduff thanked Kelley for all of his contributions to the school community and the community at-large.

"How truly fitting it is, to have this great track facility named in your honor," McAlduff said.

Frank Mooney, the Executive Director of the Massachusetts State Track Coaches Association (MSTCA), has coached many teams that competed against Wilmington High School. He remarked that he will occasionally run into one of his former athletes, going as far back as the 1970's, and they will invariably remember Mr. Kelley of Wilmington as "the guy who wore the pith helmet."

"Frank has influenced kids, not only in Wilmington and Weston, but all over the state," Mooney said.

Not only has Kelley been inducted into the MSTCA Hall of Fame, but the organization also gives out the "Frank Kelley Award" each and every year to any student athlete that has had to overcome any type of hardship in the form of physical/mental disability or adversity.

Wilmington High School Athletic Director Edward Harrison never had Kelley as a coach, but is a former student.

"He was tough, but fair," Harrison said. "He made you try harder whether you realized it or not. It was a good feeling and it did not matter if you were doing it for yourself or to prove something to Mr. Kelley."

When it was Kelley's turn to take the podium he chose, as is his way, to concentrate more on those who helped him than on his own personal accomplishments. He thanked all of those who served as his assistant coaches over his four-decade career, with a special nod to Robert Cripps who served as Kelley's assistant for twenty years before taking the helm following Kelley's retirement.

"It is a dumb coach who doesn't listen to his assistants," Kelley said. "Coaching a bunch of characters has been fun. In those 37 years I had a blast - and they paid me for it."

Kelley thanked Kay Scanlon for initiating the move to name the track after him and the Town Crier for leading the charge. Wilmington High School's baseball diamond was named in honor of Richard Scanlon, another beloved Wilmington High School teacher and Kay's late husband. Kay wanted to see the track named after Kelley during his lifetime so that he could enjoy the honor. She approached the Town Crier and asked it to push the cause.

Kelley's coaching philosophy may have been best summed up in a recollection he relayed to the crowd in which he once challenged his fastest sprinter to a race. He bet his student-athlete $10 that he would race him in a 50-yard dash. The young man saw an easy $10 in his immediate future and agreed to the wager.

The race began and the young sprinter finished in seconds. Kelley took far longer, but did manage to cross the finish line to see the outstretched open-palm of his athlete.

"You owe me $10," the young man said.

"No, you owe me $10," Kelley replied.

"What do you mean? I beat you."

"I bet you that I'd race you, not that I'd beat you," Kelley informed his sprinter. "I let him keep his $10," Kelley assured the crowd this past Thursday.

Kelley always commended the athlete that finished last - but finished, nonetheless - with just as much enthusiasm as he commended the first place winner. Meeting the challenge has always been just as important to Coach Kelley as beating the competition. It is why he never instituted the practice of "cuts" cient water supply and the lack of MBTA approval for the developer's plan to construct a pedestrian walkway underneath the Route 62 bridge. The proposed walkway would allow pedestrian traffic to flow between the MBTA station and Crystal Commons outside of the busy intersection above. According to Richard Tambone, a plan addressing all of the MBTA's requests for such a walkway had been completed and would be submitted for MBTA review later that week. Tambone had previously assured the BOA that if the walkway were not completed before condominiums are, he would provide a vehicle to transport residents of the complex to and from the MBTA station.

Boyle stated that the developer had demonstrated a commitment to building the walkway and that he should not be penalized for the slow moving bureaucracy of the MBTA. Furthermore, Boyle stated that town officials had indicated that water supply would not be an issue.

Like Doucette, Loud was concerned by the water supply issues, but concurred with Boyle that the Board must rely on the opinion of the experts. Loud went so far as to commend the project's use of Smart Growth concepts.

"This is the 'smartest growth' this town has seen in years - you couldn't get any closer to the train," Loud said prior to casting his vote. "This developer has done everything this board has asked. The project was originally 153 units, now it is 108."

Miceli, along with a number of area residents, had opposed the project since its inception.

"When (Crystal Commons) opens you'll see the biggest traffic jam you've ever seen in this town," Miceli said immediately following the Board's vote. "When all the complaints about traffic come in, the Board of Appeals are the ones that residents should speak to."

Miceli's position has consistently been that a 108 housing unit development is far too much for an area that already suffers from heavy traffic congestion.

"I would oppose this project even if I didn't live in the vicinity," Miceli said immediately following the vote. "I have publicly opposed projects in neighborhoods in other parts of town."

Also on the night that the BOA voted its approval, Miceli indicated that he was not necessarily willing to call an end to the struggle against Crystal Commons.

"What the Board has done with this decision is to put the burden on the public," Miceli said at the time. "Now the public must spend their own personal money to fight this project."

accomplishments, the things that make our town unique. We go forward, sometimes taking this right for granted, not realizing the sacrifices that have been made before us. In times of war, uncertainty abounds and tight knit communities often become closer. Wilmington is one such a community. A community where a call to duty has always been answered. A community where the ultimate sacrifice has too often been made, each time without hesitation. In special places throughout our town, the pale green patina of time has stained the monuments to our heroes of yesterday. Their stories are explained here in hopes that their service and the service of others not so memorialized will never be forgotten."

The Veterans Monument at Wilmington Town Common

The Veterans Monument was dedicated on Veterans Day November 11, 1998. The members of the committee responsible for its creation and dedication were: Ed Williams, Joseph Steen, Jim Rooney, Bob Corcoran, Gerry O'Reilly, Tom Marden and Carolyn Harris. That committee was prepared to raise the funds for the monument (approx. $15,000) but the Town of Wilmington generously agreed to finance it instead. Part of the beauty of this memorial is in its simplicity. Etched into the center stone are the words: Dedicated to the men and women who served. Etched into the left and right stones: "In recognition of those who served. In remembrance of those who did not return". Its purpose is to commemorate Veterans of ALL wars and conflicts. Specific wars listed on the monument include: Revolutionary War, War of 1812, Mexican War, Civil War, Spanish and American War, World War I, World War II, Korean War, Vietnam, Lebanon, Grenada, Panama and Desert Storm. At this site at 1:15 p.m. on Sunday May 28th, a rededication of the following memorial sites will take place:

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial at Wilmington Memorial Library

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial was dedicated in 1969

when the library opened. Two plaques hang on the wall in the foyer of the library, for four Wilmington veterans who fell in Vietnam. The first for John A. Rich - "First of Wilmington's Sons to be killed in action in Vietnam." The second, "Presented by the Jaycees in memory of Wilmington's three outstanding young men of 1968 - John Fullerton Jr., Robert Parent & Richard Welch - all having given their lives in service to the United States in Vietnam."

The Robert W. Parent Memorial at Middlesex Avenue at the Old Town Hall

"Known as the Helicopter War, Vietnam introduced the first large-scale use of helicopters for military operations. Not only were they used in the medical evacuation and liaison role as they had been in Korea, they now found their niche as troop transports, search and rescue platforms, scout ships and support gun ships. More than 5,000 helicopters of various types were destroyed as a result of operations during the war. As a result several thousand pilots and crewmembers lost their lives. Army Specialist Robert W. Parent, a helicopter crewman, was killed when his UH-1H Huey had its tail rotor shot out by enemy ground fire while sling loading supplies at a landing zone west of Camp Evans in the Thua Thien province near Khe Sanh. A member of Company C 227th Assault Helicopter Battalion, 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile), Specialist Parent died on July 21st 1968 along with his three crewmembers, all fellow New Englanders. He was twenty-one at the time of his death."

Harold Rodgers Memorial at Middlesex Avenue and Glen Road

"Harold Rogers was born in Wilmington in 1889 and was a sergeant in the United States Army during World War One. Like so many other veterans of wars fought long ago, Sergeant Rogers' story has been obscured by the passage of time. Faded memories have not allowed for further elaboration into his service in the Great War. Sergeant Harold Rogers died at Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont in October of 1918. His body was later returned to Wilmington and he is buried on his family's plot in Wildwood Cemetery. His monument was erected and dedicated in 1929."

Ronald D. Eaton Memorial at Main Street and Glen Road

"A few short years after World War II the United States was again embroiled in bitter combat, this time both on and above the Korean Peninsula. Attached to VF-74 Squadron and flying off the aircraft carrier USS Bon Homme Richard, Ensign Ronald Dow Eaton was piloting his F4U-4 Corsair over enemy held territory when his plane was downed by anti-aircraft fire. VF-74 flew over 1500 combat sorties during the Korean War, mostly in the ground attack role and it was on one such mission that Ronald Eaton was killed. Surviving this initial hostile action, Ensign Eaton was recovered by a USAF search and rescue helicopter from the 3rd Air Rescue Squadron.

In a tragic turn of events, the rescue helicopter itself was shot down. Not having a parachute of his own Ensign Eaton clung to crewmember USAF Staff Sergeant Bobby Holloway as both men bailed out of the stricken helicopter. Not being able to hold on when the Sergeant Holloway's chute opened, twenty-two year old Ensign Eaton was jerked away from his would be savior and fell to his death on June 25th 1952."

John J. Fullerton Memorial at Grove Avenue and Silver Lake

"By 1968 the United States Armed Forces had reached their high water mark in the number of personnel deployed to Vietnam. It was also the year that Wilmington and the nation suffered some of its greatest losses. Tet Nguyen Dan, the lunar new-year, began on January 31st and with it came a furious, multi-front attack by the North Vietnamese Army and the National Liberation Front: Some of the most militarily successful attacks came in the capital of Saigon and the ancient city of Hue. On January 31st 1968 Private First Class John J. Fullerton lost his life in a rocket propelled grenade attack while serving with the 95th Military Police Company at the U.S. Embassy in Saigon. Killed during the opening salvos of what would become known as the Tet Offensive, Private Fullerton died less than four months shy of his twentieth birthday. He was depicted as an unidentified G.I. in a photograph taken during the firefight, a photo, which appeared in LIFE Magazine shortly after his death."

The second part of the Town Crier's report on Wilmington's Veteran Memorials will appear in next week's edition.

Baseball team has won eight of nine games and qualify for state tournament

These Wildcats are on Fire

Wilmington High's Eric Legro watches a pitch come induring Saturday morning's huge 5-0 upset win over Newburyport in Cape Ann League baseball action.

By JOHN CLEMENO
Sports Correspondent

Georgetown -- Wilmington High baseball head coach Aldo Caira reached a milestone on Tuesday when his team qualified for the state tournament with a 12-11 victory over the Georgetown Royals.

It was the first team in five seasons that Caira's team has qualified for the playoffs. Wilmington last made the tournament in 2001. That season former head coach Dick Scanlon coached the team for the final time, and the team reached the second round of the Division 3 North sectional tournament. This year's team will participate in the Division 2 bracket.

"It's quite a feeling, one I've never had the pleasure of enjoying before," said Caira. "How do you describe it? I'm really happy for the kids, because they've gone all out this year. We've struggled with pitching at times this season, but the kids have always hung together. They've put in a lot of hard work and I'm real happy for them. This is a fantastic bunch and I'm very proud of them."

The win was the eighth in the last nine games for the Wildcats, who improved to 10-7 after starting the season 2-6. It also marked the third straight game the team scored more than 10 runs as the Wildcats have pounded out 44 hits in that time.

Eric Valenti started for Wilmington, leaving after five innings with the score tied 5-5, but was the pitcher of record when the Wildcats scored seven runs in the top of the sixth to take an 12-5 lead.

However, the Royals scored three of their own in the sixth and three more in the seventh. Georgetown had the tying run on third and winning on second with two outs, but Josh Mayo laid out to field a ground ball and crawl to second for the final out.

Greg Stewart pitched 1 1/3 innings of relief while Tom Miele closed out the final 2 2/3 innings.

Looking ahead to end of the week, Wilmington has a game at Amesbury on Thursday and the Memorial Day Tourney over the weekend. Depending on the result of Amesbury's game against Newburyport on Tuesday, Thursday's game could be a battle for second place in the Cape Ann League Div. I. If Amesbury wins, Wilmington can then tie the Indians for second. Wilmington lost the first meeting between the two teams, but that might be a good thing.

The Wildcats have avenged early-season losses to Triton, Masconomet and Newburyport in the last three weeks.

Miele may get the start on Thursday, depending on how he responds on Wednesday after throwing 26 pitches in the Georgetown victory. If Miele can't go, we expect Kevin Skinner, who shutout Newburyport last week, to get the call.

The Wildcats kickoff the Memorial Day tournament Saturday at 12:00 pm against Melrose, with Ipswich and Reading playing at 3:00 pm. The consolation and championship games will be played on Sunday at 12:00 pm and 3:00 pm, respectively.

The state tournament is expected to begin Thursday, June 1.

Boys track team finishes strong at Cape Ann League Meet

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High boys track team headed into the Cape Ann League meet on Saturday fresh off one of their best regular seasons in recent memory looking to continue the momentum gained from their 7-3 campaign.

While the Wildcats did not exactly have the same type of teams success they had in the regular season, finishing sixth out of 11 teams, they did have several athletes place in the top six in their events and even had one record breaker, as junior Shawn Fahey broke the Wildcats school record in the javelin with a throw of 176-2.

The javelin has been a very strong event for the Wildcats all season, and Saturday was no exception, as in addition to Fahey's heroics they also got a third place finish from Nick Farnsworth with a distance of 164-4 and a fourth place from Matt Marden with a 155-3.

"I expected us to do well in the javelin, but not that well," Cripps said. "I was pleasantly surprised."

Alex Chalmers has battled through injuries and illness all season long and has been unable to dominate the 800 event as he has in the past, but he is now at least somewhat healthy and it showed as he pulled off a third place finish in the event with a time of 2:06.

"He is coming along and feeling better," Cripps said. "For him, he would like to have done better than third place, but considering what he has come back from he did a great job. And he did it after running a 2:05 in the 800 relay."

Chalmers was also a part of the 4x800 team that took a sixth place finish with a time of 8:45.6, which was good enough to qualify for this weekend's state meet. The team consists of Chalmers, Dan Hunt, Bobby Folk and PJ Russo.

The 4x100 team also set a personal best, with a time of 45.4, which was good enough for third place in the meet. The 4x100 team consist of Antar George, Mike Stewart, Brad Colegrove and Fahey.

The Wildcats had a pair of fifth place finishers with Mike Condell taking the position in the 400 meters with a time of 53.3 and Will Neiman continuing his outstanding season in the javelin with a distance of 45-0.

Fahey's strong day continued with a sixth place finish in the 200 meters with a time of 23.7, while other sixth place finishers were Farnsworth in the discus with a distance of 120-3 and Nate Clarkin in the shot put with a 44 feet which qualified him for the state meet.

Cripps Honored at CAL Meet

At the end of the meet, not only were the Wildcats celebrating their outstanding individual performances, but also the announcement at the meet that coach Bob Cripps had been selected as the CAL Coach of the Year.

Cripps led the Wildcats to a 7-3 record this season, rebounding from last year's 7-3 campaign. Despite the great turnaround his team had this season Cripps still did not expect the honor.

"I was shocked, pleasantly so," Cripps said. "Quite often the award is given to the team that wins the league, but in this case I guess because of the turnaround I was fortunate enough to be selected."

Cripps credited the athletes on his team for the honor.

"We have a lot of super kids," Cripps said. "We kept reminding ourselves that last year we were not satisfied with our results and that we wanted to improve this year. And the kids worked hard and got it done."

Track and Field Championship Meet

Fahey top thrower in the league

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Heading into the Cape Ann League meet this weekend at Hamilton-Wenham High School a lot was expected out of Wilmington High junior Shawn Fahey.

It was with good reason that there were such high hopes for Fahey. After all, he entered the meet after a regular season in which he set a Wilmington High record in the javelin and had performed well in several other events during the year. But despite the high expectations, nobody could have predicted what transpired as the meet went on.

Fahey did not just have a good day, he had a spectacular day, breaking his own school record in the javelin with a throw of 176-2, surpassing his previous record of 169-9. That alone would have been enough to satisfy most athletes, but Fahey was far from done, as he also ran the anchor leg in Wildcats third place finish in the 4 x 100 relay in which the team set a personal best time of 45.4.

Add to that a sixth place finish in the 200 meters in a time of 23.7, and you could say that Fahey exceeded even the most outrageous of expectations.

But Fahey did not achieve his great success, particularly in the javelin overnight. He is in his second year with the Wildcats and it has been a case of practice making perfect for the junior.

"He's been improving regularly," Wildcats coach Bob Cripps said. "His technique has been getting better and better and he has been working very hard at it."

Fahey himself was thrilled to see all of the effort he has been putting in pay off this season.

"I started the event last year and it was a little frustrating at the beginning because I had to get used to throwing the javelin," Fahey said. "But coach (Mike) Kinney helped me a lot to get the hang of it. It is great now to get some recognition."

While some of his opponents may have been surprised by his success not only in the CAL meet, but throughout the season, Fahey was not really surprised by his great season.

"Mr. Kinney and I were hoping for success this year and we had a lot of confidence that I could possibly win the league title or at least go to states," Fahey said. "I have been doing

Amanda and Danielle, members of the girls tennis team

Sisters going the extra Miles on the court

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

Wilmington High School tennis players Amanda and Danielle Miles do not have a lot in common on the tennis court. First of all, Amanda, a senior co-captain is the Wildcats number one singles player, while her younger sister, sophomore Danielle is half of the Wildcats top doubles team along with fellow sophomore Taylor Kindred.

Also, Amanda is an established veteran for the Wildcats, while Danielle's play has yet to reach its full potential, but it is certainly rising with every match.

The one thing the sisters definitely do have in common on the court, however, is that they represent the best the Wildcats have to offer as they take on their talented Cape Ann League foes. Another thing they very much have in common is the faith that coach Kevin Welch has in both of them.

His faith in Amanda was evident in his choice to make her a team captain last year as a junior. Bringing her back as a captain this season was an easy decision.

"I asked her to be a captain as a junior because she knew the game and had tennis leadership," Welch said. "I picked her because she knew the game and I knew she could lead the other kids. I also knew she was dedicated to the game and dedicated to getting better."

Unfortunately for Amanda, despite her significant skills she quite frequently finds herself in an uphill battle in has number one singles position, taking on the top players in the CAL every match. As a result the wins have not been as plentiful for Amanda as they would be if she were in second or third singles where she would likely dominate, but her contribution to the team has still been huge.

"A lot of times I do feel over-matched, but I figure if I work really hard my opponent might get frustrated and I will have more of a shot," Amanda said. "It is definitely a challenge, but I don't think it would be as much fun if I did not feel like I was playing to my full potential."

Welch certainly appreciates the senior leader's willingness to sacrifice herself for the team.

"It's very difficult. No one wants to go out there and lose, but she is playing some of the top players in the state," Welch said. "She has a very good attitude though and that is good for the team. Even if she loses a match she is out there enjoying the game."

Danielle has experienced several wins of her own this season, as well as last season, and as just a sophomore has developed a great technique for doubles play despite never playing doubles prior to starting her high school career. Welch has been impressed with the way that she and partner Kindred have meshed.

"There is a lot more strategy in playing doubles," Welch said. "There is a big learning curve, but she and Taylor are handling it well. Actually going into the season I had full intention of splitting them up to balance the team a little more, but they spoke up and said they wanted to be together and it has worked out well."

Danielle says that Kindred is a very big part of her success, but at the same time she is looking forward to moving to singles next season.

"I think because Taylor and I are friends it has really helped. We are able to play off each other and know what the other is going to do," Danielle said. "But I would like to play singles next year. I don't know what it will be like to not play with Taylor anymore."

Welch is in agreement with Danielle on her move to singles play, and will be looking for an even bigger contribution from her next year as a junior.

"I talked to Amanda and Taylor and told them that for the rest of this season I am going to split them apart and that next year at least one of them will be playing singles," Welch said. "They are probably the future of the team."

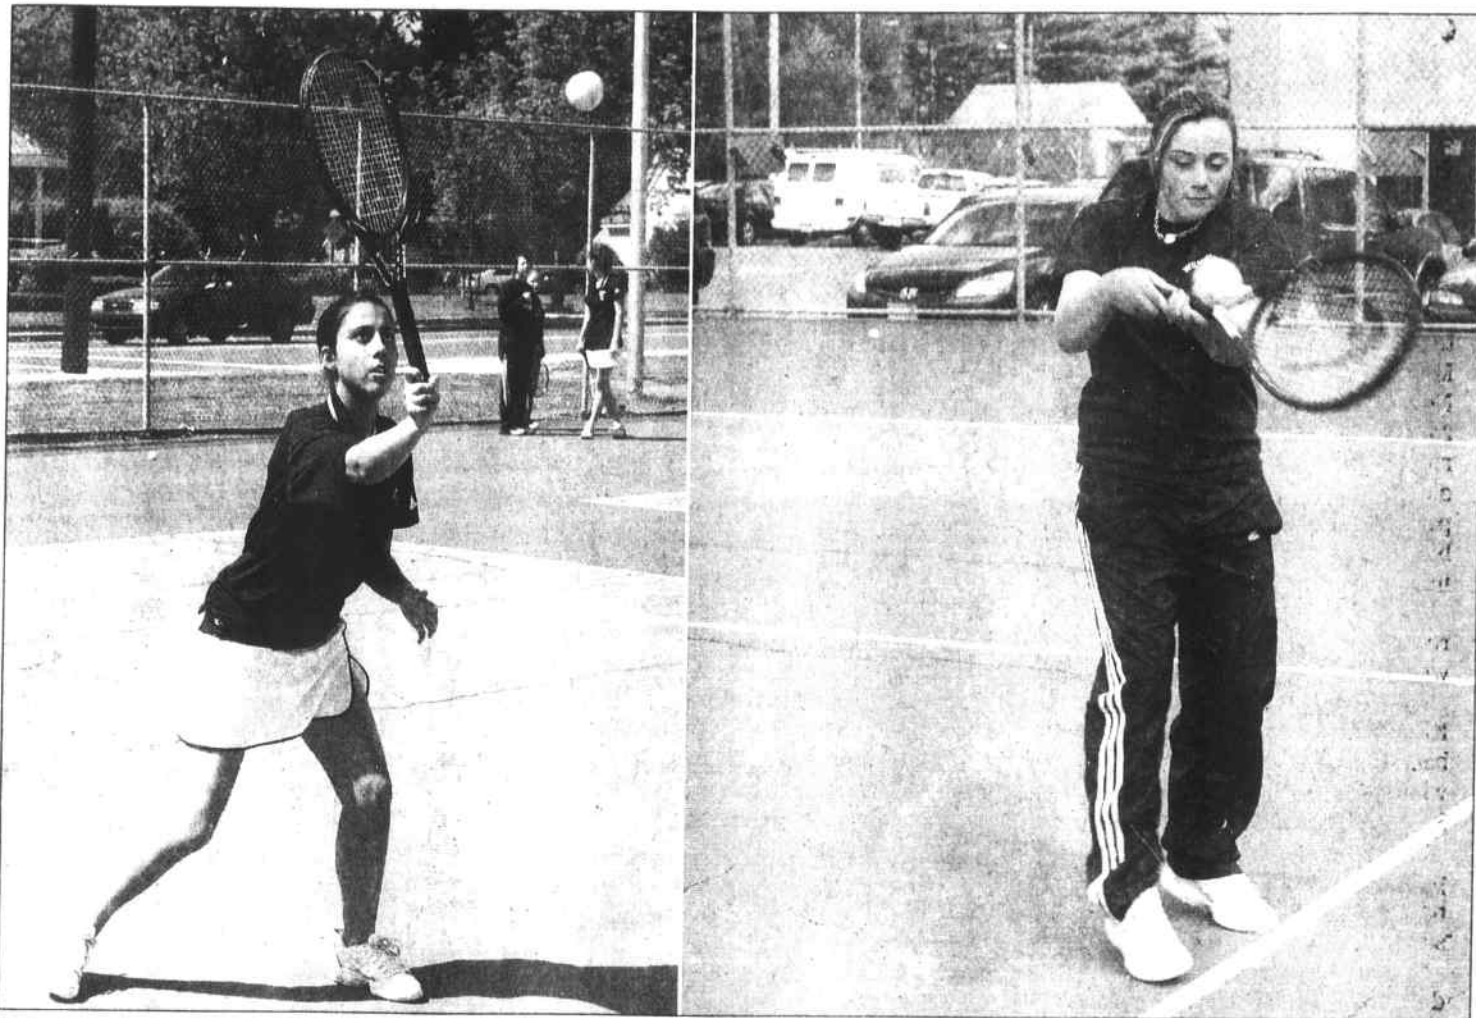

Unfortunately for the Wildcats, Amanda will not be a part of that future. She will be heading to Boston College next year where she hopes to play some club or intramural tennis, but she knows she will miss her teammates and friends at Wilmington High.

"It's going to be very difficult. Tennis has been a very big part of my high school experience," Amanda said. "I don't want to give up playing, but I do understand that you have to move on."

Welch will certainly miss having her leadership as well as her playing talents on the roster.

"It's definitely going to be tough. Of all of our players, Amanda knows more than anyone how to manage a match," Welch said. "Sometimes because she is so talented I am able to focus my attention elsewhere as a coach because I know she will be all right. It is tough to lose a senior who knows the game like that."

Perhaps no Wildcat will miss Amanda more than Danielle, who has learned from her as not just a team captain but also a sister who provided a great example of how the game should be played.

"It's been good playing with her," Danielle said. "I learned from her that you can't take things too seriously, because a lot of the competition we face has been playing tennis year round for years. It can get frustrating but you have to realize that you can also learn from those matches."

While Welch is disappointed to lose Amanda after four years of great play, he is equally thrilled to have Danielle back in the fold for two more years.

And Danielle herself is looking forward to taking another step in her career which got a big boost with a win at the North Sectional Singles and Doubles Tournament at the Newton South Courts on Saturday. Danielle and Kindred won a match in the first round over the number one singles team from Methuen before being eliminated by the top team from CAL rival Masconomet.

"We were proud to have won a match. It was probably a little step down from the competition we usually face in our league matches," Danielle said. "I am looking forward to getting better as time goes on."

Amanda (left) and Danielle (right) Miles are not only sisters, but members of the Wilmington High girls tennis team. Amanda is a senior captain and will be heading to Boston College in the fall. Danielle will be back with the team for the next two years.

Hornets edge 'Cats on the court

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High tennis team suffered a tough loss on Monday afternoon at home to North Reading, but while the 3-2 loss to their Cape Ann League rivals was tough to take they did get a couple of outstanding performances from their doubles teams, each of whom won in three sets.

The loss dropped the Wildcats record on the season to 2-10 with three matches left.

The first doubles team of Dan Kline and Zach Church came back for a thrilling victory, winning by a score of 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

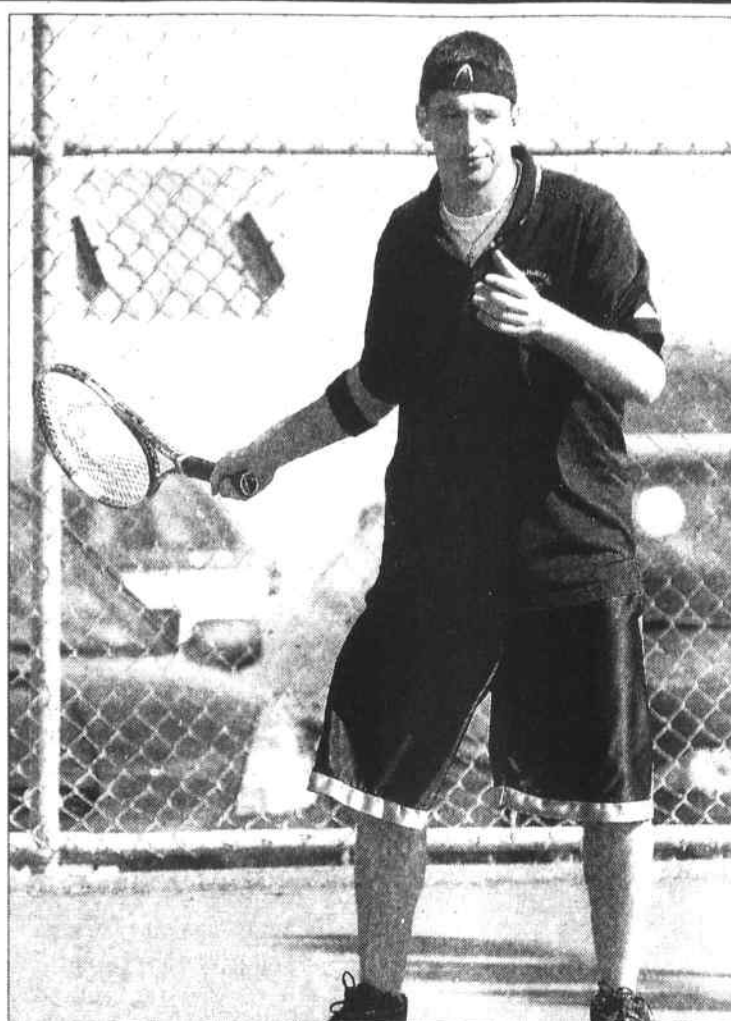

Coach Matt Hackett was pleased to see the pair bounce back so well from their opening set loss.

"It was kind of funny where during the first set I thought they were playing some of their worst tennis of the year, and then all of a sudden they started to play some of their best tennis of the year," Hackett said. "It's all about momentum shifts."

Kline in particular stepped up his game in the latter two sets.

"Dan really turned it on after the first set," Hackett said. "In one game he had three aces out of his four serves. He was just on his game."

The second doubles team of Kyle Borsetti and Rich Barry had a thrilling comeback of their own, taking a 6-4, 2-6, 6-0 victory. The pair obviously dominated the third set, and Hackett was impressed with the way they simply took over when it mattered most.

"It was kind of a similar story to first singles where I don't remember a set where they had played as poorly as they did in the second set," Hackett said. "But at the end of the set we talked about playing smart and setting up our shots. They put them on their heels right away and things could not have gone better."

The singles matches did not go as well for the Wildcats as Brian Garrett lost in first singles by a score of 6-2, 6-2, and Mike Haepers lost in second singles 6-4, 6-2. Third singles Mike Auciello put up quite a battle before falling in heart-breaker by a score of 6-3, 4-6, 6-1.

"Mike played well, but at the beginning of the third set he just got down fast 3-0," Hackett said. "He found himself having to claw back right away. His opponent did a good job of forcing Mike to use his backhand a lot more than he wanted to."

The Wildcats will wrap up their season with a home match against Ipswich on Thursday afternoon.

Girls Tennis team collects second win of the season

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High girls tennis team picked up their second win of the season on Tuesday afternoon in a home match with Cape Ann League rival Rockport, coming away with a 4-1 win to improve their record to 2-12 on the season.

The Wildcats got wins from both doubles teams as well as in first and second singles.

Earning the win in first singles by a score of 6-1, 6-3 was senior captain Amanda Miles. It was Miles second win of the season and it was well earned, especially considering the day before in a loss to North Reading she had lost a three set heartbreaker by a score of 6-7 (2-7), 7-5, 6-3.

"She played a very good match," Wildcats coach Kevin Welch said. "She was out there for three hours yesterday so to come back the way she did today was very impressive. She was in control the whole way."

Martinello won her match in straight sets by a score of 7-6 (7-3), 6-2.

"Taryn has taken her lumps this year so it was nice to see her get a win," Welch said. "That first set was very big for her, being able to win the tiebreak. Mentally that was very big and it carried through to the second set."

Jill Manganelli suffered the loss in third singles, falling by a score of 6-1, 6-3. Despite the loss, Welch was pleased with the way Manganelli played.

"Her match was almost the opposite of Taryn's," Welch said. "She got down quick in the second set, but she battled back. Even though she lost it was good to see the way she came back."

The top doubles team of Danielle Miles and Taylor Kindred were reunited in this match after being separated the day before against North Reading when Miles played third singles for the first time this season.

The pair certainly appeared happy to be back together as they earned a hard fought 7-6 (7-2), 6-2 victory. Once again it was a tiebreaker in the first set that got the Wildcats going.

"A tiebreaker can really shift momentum," Welch said. "They were down 5-3 in the first set and fought back to win that and were able to carry that forward to the next set."

In second doubles it was the senior combination of Kim Gentile and Alyssa Bibeau taking the victory, by a score of 6-4, 6-3. As it turned out, this was the clinching win for the Wildcats, as at the time of their victory it made the score 3-1 in favor of the Wildcats.

"I was really happy for Kim and Alyssa. It was their first win of the season, and I felt really good for them," Welch said. "They deserved to win and they deserved to get the clincher."

The day before the Wildcats suffered a 4-1 loss to CAL rival North Reading, with their only win coming in third doubles with Danielle Miles doing the honors by a score of 7-6 (7-5), 7-6 (7-3).

Normally part of the Wildcats top doubles team with Kindred, Miles adapted very well to the change.

"She is playing great and it was nice to see her get two straight tiebreakers," Welch said. "It was very encouraging that she was able to tough it out and get through both. I put her in singles to get her some experience for next year and I am going to do the same with Taylor this week."

The Wildcats will wrap up their regular season at home against Ipswich on Thursday afternoon.

Softball team takes two steps forward and two steps back

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

It's been a very strange season for the Wilmington High Wildcat girls softball team and this past week was no different.

There's been times this season when the team has looked very good beating the likes of Amesbury and Methuen and then there's times when the team has looked like they never played the game before in contests against Amesbury and North Andover. Struggling for consistency is what has kept this team back a bit.

This past week, Wilmington defeated Lynnfield and Ipswich, lost an extra inning heartbreaker to Triton and then really struggled on Tuesday afternoon against North Reading. With the 2-2 mark this week, the 'Cats are now 8-7 on the season and need to win two of its last five games to qualify for the state tournament for the 11th straight season and for the 14th time in the past 15 years.

Wilmington has games left with Georgetown and Rockport on Wednesday and Friday, followed by a game with Tewksbury on Saturday, Lowell on Sunday and Masconomet on Monday. Tewksbury and Lowell are two dynamite teams from the Merrimack Valley Conference. Tewksbury is gunning for its second straight divisional title, while, Lowell has almost its entire team back from last year's Division 1 state championship. Georgetown and Rockport are two teams Wilmington is clearly better than. Masconomet is right there with the 'Cats.

After Monday night's 4-2 win over Ipswich at home, head coach Bob Surran seemed more confident that his team was starting to come around after hitting several speed bumps over the last few games. Wilmington's defense was better on the night, and the offense was too as the 'Cats banged out seven hits, including one each from the first five batters in the order.

But about 20 hours later, a very good North Reading team took the 'Cats lunch and dessert, coming away with a 7-0 victory.

"I thought we played well Monday night but we had nothing saved (on Tuesday)," said head coach Bob Surran.

North Reading scored three runs in the top of the first before anyone could blink. After a bunt, the next batter reached on a four base error, which followed by a home run off the bat of power hitter Stephanie Mayne. The game was five pitches deep and the 'Cats were in a 3-0 hole they could never dig out of.

Wilmington had just three hits in the game.

"It was just not a good game for us," said Surran.

Monday night was a pretty good win for Wilmington. The 'Cats scored three runs in the bottom of the third which included RBI hits from Shelby Rygiel and Nicole Bockus, while, Megan Godding got hit by a pitch with the bases loaded to bring in a run.

Ipswich scored a run in the top of the sixth and Wilmington got it back in the home half when Kim Ciampa singled in Katie Cole. Ipswich scored its second run in the top of the seventh on two hits, an error and a RBI groundout. But with a runner at third and two out, Cathy Sheerin got out of the jam when she made an outstanding catch that went right back at her on the mound.

"Ipswich has improved a lot," said Surran. "They like to bunt and run and they have some pretty rabbits over there who can steal some bases. The fact that we could play pretty good defense and take their bunt and slap away from them for most of the game I think is a good tribute to the kids. Our hitting hasn't been there so we're trying to do it with better defense and tonight it was there."

Wilmington was effective with its short game as Cole, Brittany Collins and Meghan Godding all had bunt singles, while, Cole added two stolen bases and Collins had one. The team's top four hitters of Cole, Collins, Ciampa and Godding combined to go 4-for-12, while scoring four runs, knocking in two, while walking three times (including the hits batsman) and had a sacrifice bunt.

"The thing is I believe that if you bunt well, you're going to hit well. Megan (Godding) got a bunt down, Kim Ciampa got one down, Katie Cole got one down and we're working on that. A few weeks back when we were really struggling with the bats, we spent an entire practice working everybody on bunting just trying to improve that aspect of the game. If you're not going to hit, you're going to bunt."

Sheerin went the distance again to notch the win. The senior has tossed every inning of every game this season and Surran said that has been a cause of concern.

"I was most worried about if we played Tewksbury (on Sunday) because Cathy tweaked her arm a little bit," he said. "She's fine right now. She threw the ball awesome the last three games, especially in the Triton game. It's a shame that we couldn't get the short game to work a little bit because we would have won that game if we could have gotten a few bunts down."

Earlier in the week, the Wildcats split a pair of league games, beating Lynnfield and losing a terrific battle with Triton Regional.

Last Wednesday, Wilmington's offense erupted to easily overtake Lynnfield, 11-3.

Wilmington collected seven hits in the game including two each from Collins and Bockus, while Ciampa also had a key RBI single in the win.

Sheerin went the distance on the mound to notch the victory as she gave up just four hits on two earned runs while walking just one and striking out nine.

Sheerin kept up her strong pitching on Thursday when Triton edged out the Wildcats, 1-0, in 11 innings. Triton improved to 8-5 on the season on a two-out RBI hit from Liz Lebrun. Sheerin dominated from the start of the game until the end striking out 17 batters, while she gave up just six hits and walked two.

Offensively, Godding had two of the five hits for Wilmington in the losing effort.

Godding addition a pleasant surprise

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Back in early April when discussing the players he chose for his team, Wilmington High softball coach Bob Surran never mentioned Meghan Godding. But on Monday night, the senior was batting clean-up and went 1-for-3 at the plate, with a RBI, and also made a fine running catch in center field.

Godding, who was a co-captain of the volleyball team for each of the past two years, also had previously played varsity basketball during her freshman and sophomore seasons. She gave up basketball, taking the winter off, and would normally play in a goof around spring soccer league. But shortly after this year's softball team was selected, Surran and Godding got to know each other.

"I played soccer for intown and this year we didn't play," said Godding. "And then the (softball team) had tryouts and I missed them, but thank God (Coach Surran) let me on the team. Someone quit and (teammate) Brittany Collins told me, so I asked her to ask (Surran) if I could join up. He told me to come down and I did. He said I would be on the team but he didn't know how much playing time I would get until he saw what I could do."

Quickly her incredible energy and athleticism found its way onto Surran's line-up card. After splitting the team's first two games, Godding made a big impact in the team's non-league game against Methuen. Hannah Everson, who is one of the premier pitchers in the state, was on her way to another gem until Wilmington scored four runs in the sixth, including a two-run single by Godding. She's been in the line-up ever since.

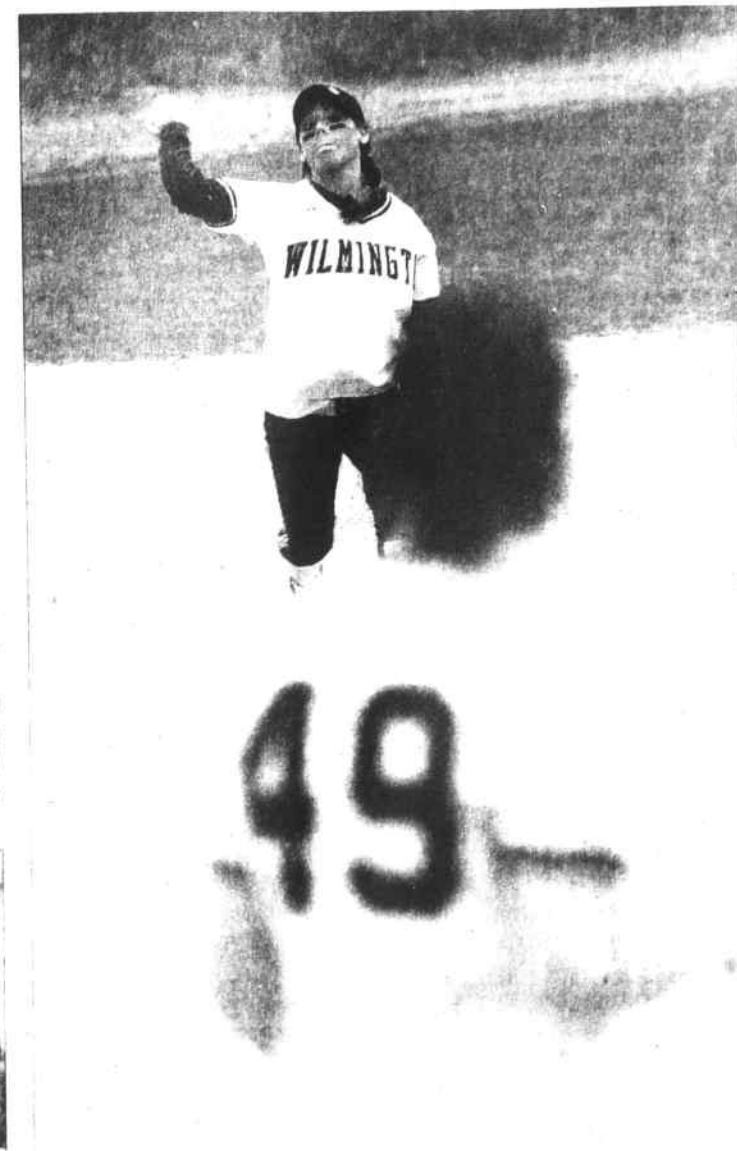

"Not only is Meghan a nice addition to the team for what she does on the field but what she does on the bench," said Surran. "She is just such a sparkplug, man oh man she is just a sparkplug. She hasn't missed a beat and I really don't know where we'd be without her. Obviously Cathy (Sheerin the pitcher) is the top player for us, but behind that the catching has been good but Meghan has helped the younger kids on so many levels. She cares so much about the kids and the team. She just really has done a great job."

"We actually had two seniors quit after they both made the team. And the kids came to me and said that Meghan would be Wilmington High's Nicole Bockus takes a cut at a pitch during a recent Cape Ann League softball game played at April Field. The team is currently 8-7 on the season and need two more wins to qualify for the state tournament.

Wilmington High senior Brittany Collins has moved over from third base to shortstop and here she makes a play and a throw over to first during a recent Wildcat game.

Ninth place finish for girls track team

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Wilmington High girls track team finished 9th out of 11 teams in the Cape Ann League meet on Saturday afternoon, but the Wildcats did have some outstanding individual efforts in the meet, as they earned 12 points on the day.

Freshman Natalie Russo had the best day for the Wildcats, taking third in the two mile event in a time of 12:13. Sophomore Stephanie Baima took fourth in the high jump at 4-10, while senior captain Nadia Prinzivalli took sixth in the shot put with a distance of 31-4 and junior Kim Silvia also took a sixth place finish, in the 300 meter hurdles with a time of 50.1.

Russo was one second out of a second place finish, coming in just behind a runner from Lynnfield.

"It was the same girl who beat her by a second in the meet against Lynnfield so that was kind of frustrating for her," Wildcats coach Tom Bradley said. "But that is a very consistent time for Natalie, and she has had a fabulous year for us as a freshman in cross country, winter and now spring."

Silvia's sixth place finish in the 300 hurdles earned her a spot in the state meet this weekend in Milton. When it was suggested to Bradley that the junior had stepped up her performance for the CAL meet, he disagreed, pointing instead to her performance throughout the year.

"For her it was not stepping up. She has been getting better and better as the year has gone on," Bradley said. "She was already a very accomplished runner at the 300 and 400 meter events before we switched her to hurdles. Now it is just a matter of continuing to get better."

Despite Baima's fourth place finish, it was not one of her best performances of the season, as she has been consistently jumping over 5-0 for most of the season and as of late has been clearing 5-4. She was seeded number one going into the meet, and Bradley is looking for her to bounce back with a strong performance at the state meet.

"I think she'll have a big week of practice," Bradley said. "We'll see what the seedings are but if she jumps 5-4 she will have a good chance to place and go to the All-States."

Godding addition a pleasant surprise

a good fit with us. So she came down and she had good speed and good athleticism and I'd see what she could do."

Godding had to learn many things upon getting the center field position. She had to learn how to hit, bunt, field and catch the ball, nevermind getting to know the coaches and the players, since most of her teammates are sophomores.

"It's awesome," she said. "It's been so much fun especially because I really don't know what I'm doing so I'm just going crazy. I had to learn how to catch the ball. The toughest part was going back for a ball but I'm pretty good at that now."

Catching the ball, Godding said was pretty difficult. But after a few practices with Surran, it came natural.

"What I would do at practice is taking the pitching machine and turn it upside down," said Surran. "And what I do (for the outfielders) is you have to give them a mark or they'll cheat. So I put a base down and they have to stand on. I'd put the machine on swivel and have the ball go over their heads so they have to back up on it. That's a very tough ball to get. And I tell you, Meghan had it down. We told her to go back, pick your spot, make the catch and I tell you what an outfielder she has become."

With a runner on first and two outs in a scoreless game in the bottom of the first inning on Monday, Godding put down a perfect bunt down the third base line. Coming out of the left hander's batter's box, she got the head of the bat out nicely, and allowed the ball to hit the ball enough to get it away from the catcher, pitcher and third baseman. She reached safely at first with the bunt single, but the throw skipped away allowing her to move to second and Kim Ciampa to advance to third.

"It was pretty tough to learn how to bunt but I think I got that down now too," said Godding. "Batting was so tough because it's coming so fast. I played softball when I was little but they threw the ball two miles per hour and now I get up there and they are throwing 50 miles per hour and I'm like what's going on."

In the bottom of the third inning, Godding was back up with the bases loaded. But this time she took a pitch right off her right elbow leaving a pretty good mark. After shaking it off, and slowly walking down to first base, the home plate umpire looked down to see if she was OK. Godding glanced back and gave him a smile and the thumbs up sign.

"I love this team," said Godding. "We have some good chemistry and we all get along and we have a good time no matter if we win or lose. I was so nervous I didn't know how much I would play, but I just wanted to do something because I love sports. I just wanted to do something and now I'm playing all of the time, so this is just awesome."

Locals shine for Austin Prep

Two Austin Preparatory School seniors from Tewksbury were named captains of their respective athletic teams this season.

Senior Kerry Galvin has competed on Austin's track team for the past five years. She competes in the high jump, triple jump, 400 meter, 4x2 and 4x4 events. Galvin's past accomplishments include Austin's Female Student Athlete award and the Most Improved award. She hopes to perform well at the state meet, where she will compete in the high jump. She is the daughter of Paul Galvin and Kim Galvin.

Evan Patten, also a senior, has played on Austin's lacrosse team for the past four years. In past years, Patten, who plays midfield, has been named a Lowell Sun All-Star and received the Coaches Award. His goal for the team is a win at the Division III State Tournament. He is the son of Douglas and Regina Patten.

Also several locals from Wilmington and Tewksbury excelled for the Track and Field team this past weekend. Competing in the Catholic Central League Meet, Wilmington's Evan Guarino was named the meet's MVP after taking first in the 100 (11.1), 200 (22.9) and long jump (19-3.50) leading the team to the meet championship title.

The girls team finished fifth as Wilmington's Alison Audette was named the co-MVP of the meet as she took first in the 100 (12.7) and 200 (26.1) breaking school records in both, while she ended the day taking second in the long jump (15-5.50).

Kerry Galvin of Tewksbury was second in the triple jump (31-8) and high jump (4-8).

a lot of lifting and I got a lot stronger, and I have been throwing a lot in practice because a lot of the javelin is in the technique."

Cripps may not have foreseen a league championship, but he certainly knew that he had a potential star on his team.

"I had hoped he would have this type of success," Cripps said. "A big difference for him is that he is taking it a lot more seriously this year than in the past. I think that comes partially just from being a junior instead of a sophomore."

The javelin and the 100 meters do not seem like the most likely combination, especially when the events are occurring one right after the other, but it is a combination that has worked very well for Fahey, and Saturday was no exception.

"Saturday was pretty hectic," Fahey said. "I was helping a friend in the 100 and then I had to run over and do the javelin. I found I actually did a little better in the javelin after running the 100 because it got the blood flowing a little and I was ready to go."

While was definitely proud of his individual achievement in the javelin, he was equally thrilled with the relay team's success in setting a new personal best. He enjoyed sharing the achievement with teammates Antar George, Mike Stewart and Brad Colegrove.

"Everyone ran very well. We would have liked to have cut even more time off, but we were happy with how well we did," Fahey said. "Antar always gets us off to a good start and Mike did a good job running second. Colegrove made up a lot of ground running third and I think we were fifth or sixth when I took over and I was able to gain on a couple of kids."

Baseball team posts two shutouts in doubleheader

Skinner leads team past first place Clippers

By JOHN CLEMENO
Sports Correspondent

In another sign that the 2005 Wilmington High baseball team is unlike others of recent vintage, the Wildcats defeated the first-place Newburyport Clippers, 5-0, at Dick Scanlon Memorial Field last Saturday morning in the first of two games played by the Wildcats that day.

After stringing together the first three-game winning streak of his tenure earlier this season, Wilmington manager Aldo Caira can now claim a victory over a ranked opponent.

"Oh, I would say this is the biggest win for this program. Against a top-20 team? They don't get any bigger than this," said Caira. "You know, I kinda figured they'd be ripe for the picking. They beat us the first time up there, 6-3, and they were 12-1 and a little cocky over there. And he started his No. 3 guy, so we kind of figured they were ripe for the picking."

The seven wins leaves the team needing three more in the season's final six games to qualify for the state tournament.

Kevin Skinner made his first start of the season, working five-plus innings to pick up the victory in front of a defense that didn't commit an error.

"Yeah, I was really happy beating Newburyport," said Skinner. "I just came out and tried to throw strikes and let my defense get the outs for me. They were great today. (Andy Strathman) at third had a great play, Alex (Montalto) at second and Mayo at short were great. The whole team did a great job, and I'm happy to help us get a win and get us closer to the playoffs."

Andy Strathman led the offense with two hits, a walk and two runs scored while extending his hitting streak to six games. The Wildcats also capitalized three Clipper errors, including two in the middle of a three-run sixth inning that made a precarious 2-0 game more secure.

The Clippers, who came in with a 12-1 record and comfortably atop the Cape Ann League Division 1, could not come up with the key hit when needed. Skinner, who threw 96 pitches, allowed baserunners in all but one of his innings, but Wilmington's defense was flawless and never let those runners advance because of error.

"We played a great game today. We didn't make an error," said Caira. "That was the whole key to this game, our defense. We made routine plays and that's what we preach. If you can make the routine plays, the exceptional plays are that much more meaningful. We didn't have to make any exceptional plays today because we made all the routine ones."

Skinner worked out of an early jam in the top of the first. A double and two walks loaded the bases, but he was able to get Evan Arnold to foul out. Strathman led off Wilmington's half of the inning with a single Wilmington High baseball coach Aldo Caira has watched his team win eight of its last nine games, including sweeping a doubleheader on Saturday. and moved to second on Al Montalto's sacrifice. After Sean Murphy's strikeout, Strathman scored to give Wilmington a 1-0 lead when third baseman Joe Pace booted Eric Legro's grounder.

The Clippers threatened in the third on a double and a walk, but Skinner struck out Garrett Boyd and got Arnold to ground out. The Wildcats once again responded to the visitors, threat in their half of the inning. For the second time in the game, Strathman led off an inning by getting on base, this time by a walk. He immediately stole second base and was knocked in by Murphy's bloop single.

Skinner began to find his groove in the middle innings, at one point retiring six batters in a row before walking two in the fifth. He got out of that jam, but was eventually pulled by Caira in the sixth inning after walking the first batter.

"I'll tell you, Kevin hadn't started all year; he's come into all of his games in relief," said Caira. "With all the games we have coming up next week, we figured we'd give him a start and see how far he could go. And he really battled. The same thing happened the other day when Brian (Caira) was pitching. Brian didn't have his best stuff and Brian battled and we got a win out of that one. Kevin did the same thing today. I'm very happy for him."

Caira called on Stewart, who has been the coach's go-to guy in relief situations with runners on base. After walking the first batter he faced, Stewart got a strikeout, flyout and strikeout to shut the door on the Clippers.

"He's done well for us with inherited runners," said Caira. "He's the hardest thrower we have on this team. If you can't count on someone like that at the end of the game, especially a close game like this against a top-20 team, it's a good feeling to have for a coach to be able to rely on someone like that."

Stewart, who went on to close out the game for the Wildcats, rebounded nicely from getting roughed up by Pentucket a week earlier.

"Yeah, that one I'm kind of kicking myself for," said Caira.

"You know, he really hadn't warmed up and I was hoping that he'd be ready and it was a spur-of-the-moment thing and I didn't have an opportunity to warm him up that game. We warmed him up between innings today, so I knew that he was ready to go."

Wilmington added three insurance runs in the bottom of the sixth. Legro reached on Pace's second error of the game, and was followed by a Mayo single and walk to Brendan Sheehan to load the bases. Chris Danceo's single scored Legro, then two fielder's choices played the other two scores.

Two days earlier, the Wildcats were able to avenge a loss earlier in the season when they defeated Masconomet Regional, 5-4, in Wilmington.

Brian Caira picked up the win for Wilmington, going 6 2/3 innings before Tom Miele pitched the final 1/3 for the save. Caira struggled all day, walking seven and hitting two batters, but was able to get the outs when he needed.

Sartori fought his way downfield to the front of Salem's crease to score his first goal of the season.

As fate would have it, the skies opened up for an afternoon down pour in the fourth quarter, but the rain couldn't drown the Cats' spirit as Zack Lord drove in yet another goal, followed by Joe Bosco's blistering shot with assistance from Matt Penney.

Try as hard as they did, Salem scored another goal, but just couldn't overtake Blue's lead. With only seconds remaining, Troy Homola fired a booming shot at Salem's net for his second & the Cat's final goal of the game to seal a 12-7 victory over Salem.

Miele tosses complete game gem

By JOHN CLEMENO

The hottest team in the Cape Ann League stayed that way last Saturday afternoon when Wilmington High easily dispatched the Manchester Hornets, 14-0, at Dick Scanlon Memorial Field.

The win was the Wildcats, second of the day — they shutout Newburyport that morning — third in a row and sixth in the last seven games. The team is now 8-7 — the latest in any season the team has been over .500 in manager Aldo Caira's tenure.

"We're the hottest team in the Cape Ann League right now," said Caira. "I think the kids are believing in themselves. You know, when you believe in yourself, you can do anything. Someone said to me the other day when the stats came out in the (Boston) Globe, 'you got two of the top three hitters in the league, but I looked at the pitching stats and we don't have anyone up there in pitching. That's because our hitting is carrying us.'"

"It's nice. They are believing in themselves. They're doing the little things that they need to do to win. And that's what baseball's all about."

Hitting certainly carried Wilmington on this day as they pounded out 18 hits and were up 11-0 after just three innings. Caira's been on the short end of those scores before, so he instructed his team to let up a little and not show up the Hornets. If not for Caira calling off the dogs, the game could have easily been 20-0.

"I'm kinda tongue-tied. A 14-0 game is a little tough to assess," said Caira. "We stopped running. I know they've struggled over there, like me, so I certainly know what that's about. I didn't want to do anything to embarrass him. And the kids were good about it. I told them we'll just hit and score. And don't try to take any extra bases."

Coupled with the morning shutout of Newburyport, the Wilmington pitching staff and defense did not allow a run in 14 consecutive innings. The Wildcats got the maximum effort against Manchester from pitcher Tom Miele, who pitched the club's second complete game of the season. He yielded just two hits over seven innings and struck out nine batters in his best performance of the season.

"That was my first complete game," said Miele. "I felt good today, I was grooving it in the first two innings. In the early innings I was just throwing the fastball and I was getting the curveball over, which is good because the last outing I wasn't getting the curve over the plate. So I was able to set up a lot of my pitches and it worked out well."

Miele was strong right away, retiring the first nine batters he faced on four strikeouts, four groundouts and a foul out. His perfect game came apart in the fourth on an error and then later the no-hitter was gone on a single by the Hornets, Pat Machain.

"Yeah, Tommy pitched well. He was really over powering. We know he doesn't have a strong team over there, but a two-hitter is a two-hitter," said Caira. "And he had nine strikeouts and walked just one batter, so Tommy did a really good job, he really did. Of the two games today, we really wanted to get this one, that's why I had Tommy pitch this game."

As futile as Manchester's offense was, Wilmington's was prolific. Wilmington loaded the bases in the first inning when Andy Strathman, who later in the game extended his hitting streak to seven games, walked, Alex Montalto singled and Sean Murphy walked. An error scored one run, then Josh Mayo's single knocked in two more to give Wilmington a 3-0 lead. Two outs later, Brian Caira singled in the fourth run of the inning.

The offense plated three more in the second and four more in the third as the rout was on. Three consecutive singles by Montalto, Murphy and Eric Legro loaded the bases with one out in the second inning for Mayo, whose fielder's choice knocked in a run. Brendan Sheehan's single scored Murphy for a 6-0 lead before Wilmington's sixth run came home on a wild pitch.

In the fourth, with Brian Caira (walk) on third and Alex Ardito (single) on first, Strathman's fielder's choice knocked in a run. He advanced to third on two wild pitches and scored on Montalto's ground ball out to give Wilmington a 9-0 lead. But the Wildcats weren't stopping until they reached double digits. Murphy's walk followed by Legro and Mayo singles loaded the bases with two outs for Brendan Sheehan, who knocked in two more with a single.

"This is the best hitting team that I've ever had here," said Caira. "Back in the Dick Scanlon days, his teams were always known for hitting. And we've been down the past couple of years. We've barely hit .250 as a team, and we're well over .300 now. And that's nice, that carries you when you really don't have a real overpowering pitcher out there. When you don't have a Joe Pace — the kid from Newburyport — that's just overpowering. You can win some ball games with the hitting."

Caira played nice the rest of the way, pulling most of his starters and giving his bench players some innings. Manchester's only real threat to score came in the seventh inning when they had a runner reach third base, but Miele got a strikeout and a pop out to end the game.

"We had a double header today, so in the early game the coach told me I wasn't going to play to keep me rested for the afternoon game," said Miele. "So I was able to really focus on pitching this afternoon."

The most important aspect to Wilmington's two wins on Saturday was that they were able to conserve arms for this week's schedule that calls for five games in seven days. Also not lost on Caira was that the two wins came in games not pitched by his No. 1 starter, Brian Caira.

"Things worked out great for us today," said Caira. "We've been relying a lot on Brian. And he's thrown a lot of innings, so having Tommy and Kevin (Skinner) this morning pitch well for us is big for our team."

On Monday, the Wildcats extended their winning streak to four games with a 20-7 trouncing over Rockport. Wilmington is now 9-7 on the season.

Lead-off hitter Andy Strathman led the way with a 4-for-5 afternoon including knocking in four runs. Alex Montalto, Greg Stewart, Tom Miele and Shane Foley each had two safeties as the Wildcats pounded out 16 hits. Foley also knocked in four runs, while, Stewart had three RBIs.

Brian Caira got the win tossing the first five innings before Stewart tossed the final two scoreless innings.

Under 11 Blue Lacrosse team fly past the Salem Witches, 12-7

After being rained out last weekend, the lake sized puddles subsided enough to have Salem and Wilmington's U11 Blue lacrosse teams take to the field this past Sunday.

The Wildcats took possession of the ball early on, winning several face offs. Steven DeFuria let Salem know the Cats were alive and kicking scoring the opening goal of the game, however, Salem quickly retaliated by scoring one of their own. Not to be outdone, Blake Walker rocketed a shot that blasted straight into Salem's net for Blue's second goal, followed-up by riveting goals from Brooks Carter, and veteran player Alec Dell'Anno pulling the Cats ahead 4-1 at the end of the first quarter.

The Cats stayed focused and remained strong in the second quarter. Troy Homola's tantalizingly shot accounted for yet another big goal for the Cats. The middle lines of Madison Roberts, Zack Lord, Blake Walker, Andrew Morris, Shane Brennan, Gerry O'Reilly, Chris Sartori, Troy Homola, Gino Martignetti, along with the defensive lines of Mitchell DeAmbrose, Mike Ferrara, Steve DeFuria, Alec Dell'Anno & Matt Penney led an aggressive offense that kept continuous pressure on Salem's defensive lines. While the attack lines of Brooks Carter, Joe Bosco, Jacob Pumphret, and Jimmy Lawrenson held their own.

The Wildcat's success during the first half of the game was attributed to two goals each from Dell'Anno, DeFuria, and Walker, along with Justin DeNorscia's superior goal tending, whose brilliant saves only allowed two Salem goals through, and judging by the 8-2 score at the end of the first half, it was clear the Cats were on top of their game.

Replacing DeNorscia in the Cat's net for the second half was Jacob Pumphret, who fended off Salem's scoring attempts with some beautiful saves. However, Salem regrouped, getting a second wind & came out fighting, stunning the Cats by scoring four additional goals in the third quarter and narrowing Blue's lead to 9-6, but not before Chris

Yankees just slip by the Tigers

Yankees 6, Tigers 5

In Wilmington Major League action last Saturday the Yankees sponsored by Captive Images and Tigers sponsored by The Law Office of Michael J. Newhouse and Associates squared off in what turned out to be a very entertaining close game that wasn't decided until the bottom of the sixth.

The Tigers came out fast and furious in the top of the first as after a pair of walks to JB Thompson and Tyler Vibert cleanup hitter John Parsons walloped a three run homer that's still traveling! The blast would have been out of every park in the majors except Fenway. It would have hit the green monster for a single there. The Tigers added another in the top of the first for a 4-0 lead before the Yankees came to bat.

The Yankees got one back in the bottom of the 1st and if it weren't for a smash off the bat of Steve Taylor hitting one of his own runners (that's a single for the hitter but the runner is out) they could have done a little more damage. Trailing 4-1, reliever Mike Ciampa held the Tigers at bay for the next two and a third innings by allowing no hits and striking four in that time. Meanwhile the Yankees offense scored a run in each of the second and third innings to cut the Tiger lead to 4-3.

In the bottom of the fourth the Yanks took a 5-4 lead with two runs on consecutive singles by Mike Brent, Steve Taylor, and Cam Owens. For Taylor and Owens that was their second hit each for the game. Meanwhile Vinny Scifo took over on the hill for the Yanks and mowed the Tigers down until the top of the sixth when Joe Aucoin walked and John Parsons lined a base hit which skipped past the outfield on the wet grass and rolled all the way to fence. Aucoin raced all the way home from first to tie it at five. Scifo whiffed the next batter to leave Parsons stranded on 3rd. It was the eighth strikeout in Vinny's three innings of work.

On to the bottom of the sixth where Stevie Ciampa led off with an infield hit (his third hit of the game). After a fly out Vinny Scifo laced a single to right center and the throw to third which was trying to nail Ciampa got away and Steve raced home with the winning run as the Yankees prevailed 6-5.

For the Tigers starting pitcher Cole Pfeiffer pitched a very effective four innings. He kept snuffing out potential Yankee rallies with big K's when he really needed them. Cole fanned four in all. Joe Aucoin also pitched well in relief as all he gave up was an infield hit and one other single.

Orioles 12, Tigers 9

The Tigers and Orioles both staged late inning comebacks in this exciting game. The Tigers scored four runs in the fifth inning, highlighted by a John Parsons double to take an 8-6 lead. The Orioles came back with six runs in their last at bat to take a 12-8 lead and held on to win, 12-9.

Hitters for the Orioles were Danny Crendon (two hits), Mike Amentola, Jimmy O'Neil, Brian Callahan, Danny Collins, and Andrew Camilleri. Tigers hitters included, J.B. Thompson, Cole Pfeiffer and Kyle Peach.

Kyle Peach pitched 6 innings for the Tigers striking out nine Orioles. Oriole pitchers included Colin Daugherty, (three innings, five strikeouts), Jackie Mulrenan, (two innings, two strikeouts) and Danny Crendon, (one inning two strikeouts). Eddie Giannakas and Sam Borsetti both played well defensively for the Tigers, as did Jimmy O'Neil for the Orioles.

White Sox 2, Indians 1

It was a picture perfect picture day at Rotary Park for this exciting and well played game. Kyle Albanese and J.T. Lynch, of the Indians, limited the White Sox to two runs on five hits, but didn't quite match the effort of John Keough, who held the tribe to one run and two hits. Defense was the key to the White Sox victory, as excellent fielding plays were turned in by Sox outfielders Zack Reed (two), Will MacKinnon, and Mike Marinella, and Sox infielders Ryan Bradley, Zack Anderson, and Pat Barry.

The Sox offense came from the Booming bat of E.J. Boggia, Barry, Reed, Anderson, and Bryon Feindel. Albanese and Jacob Russell collected the two hits each for the Indians.

A League Brewers 11, Padres 3

The Sign Fabricators Brewers defeated the DSM Neoresins Padres 11-3 in a Single A game at Glen Rd. Joey Hydorn led the Brewers offense with two hits including a ground rule double. He was also robbed of another extra base hit when Patrick Carroll of the Padres made a nice catch on a fly ball with two outs and bases loaded in the second inning.

Evan Raffi also had two hits for the Brewers, and Lucas Garrity and Eric Grabar had a hit apiece. Eric Grabar started the Brewers pitchers off working two strong innings, and Lucas Garrity, Evan Raffi, Ryan Flood and Shawn Reordan each pitched an inning. Ryan McEvoy, Mike Russo and Patrick Carroll all had two hits for the Padres, while Mike Capistran and Nolan Arbuckle each had a hit.

The Padres pitchers struggled somewhat with control early on, but settled down nicely and finished the game off with two scoreless innings. Cody Wile (two innings), Joe Castellano, Nolan Arbuckle, and Ryan McEvoy shared the pitching duties for the Padres.

Girls Under 14-5 soccer team has tough task

After a field mix-up (so typical of Medford) the Wilmington GU14-5 soccer team got their second round of warm-ups and stretching in and kicked off their second game of the season against undefeated Medford. Unfortunately this would end in another heart-wrenching loss.

Medford, with the wind at their back to start the game, had the ball in Wilmington's end for long stretches of time. Defenders Lori Fletcher and Kaitlyn McGuire, sweeper Elizabeth Jaeschke and stopper Fiona Gately had their hands full and did a super job keeping Medford to only a one goal in the first half. That came on a loose ball in front that nobody could get a handle on. These girls were on the field for just about the entire game.

Heather Kealos had several nice rushes down the right side using her exceptional speed, sending one shot sailing over the net and getting some close chances on some nice crosses.

Late in the first half right midfielder Samantha Reed sent a nice pass up to Heather Kealos at right forward, Heather sent a strong cross out in front of the Medford goal, Alyssa Fiorentino, Meaghan Souza and Courtney See were all banging at the ball trying to get it into the net but just couldn't get a handle on it as time ran out in the first half.

Wilmington really stepped up in the second half with the wind at their backs. We had the ball in Medford's end for long stretches of time. Left midfielder Kelly Duffy and left forward Haley Robarge combined on some nice passing to give them a couple of good chances.

Jenny Garrard, Kristen Keller and Kelly Flaherty all kept the pressure on working hard at their forward positions. Wilmington's pressure led to a hand ball in the box on Medford. Up steps Heather Kealos to take the penalty kick. Heather blasted a kick the keeper got just a hand on, but had no chance at stopping. Score tied 1-1.

Medford tried to put the pressure on pulling their whole team up past midfield. Wilmington gained control of the ball and Lauren Cole sent a clearing pass that Heather touched past a defender at midfield. The race was on. This was a lesson in never giving up on a play. With the defender battling Heather all the way she went in on the right side of the net.

The keeper came out to play the wall and then started retreating trying to cut Heather off to the ball. Heather got past the defender and keeper and with only a few feet to the end line she tucked a nice quick shot into the net. Wilmington up 2-1. A tremendous play.

This was a lead that was worked hard for and well deserved, unfortunately it would also be short lived. Medford stepped up their play and pressure and were able to put the tying goal in on a blistering shot. Then later they took a high booming shot on goal that Andre the Giant wouldn't have been able to stop for the lead.

The important thing is that the girls kept working hard trying to tie the game back up. They never gave up battling for every loose ball, playing the ball off of their body and head working as a team backing each other up. I know the girls will look forward to playing this team in the future, using Medford as a gauge in their own progress as a team.

Keep up the hard work girls as we look forward to our make-up game against Wakefield this Monday night May 22nd at Shawsheen Field!

Rams track team continues to dominate

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech track team had a great regular season in the Commonwealth Athletic Conference, posting a 12-1 record, with their only loss coming to league champion Greater Lowell.

It should come as no surprise then, that in the CAC league meet held at the Tech last Thursday afternoon, that the Rams dominated their competition, rolling over a field that did not include greater Lowell, and winning the meet with 181 points. The Rams closest competitor was Tyngsboro who finished with 124 points, followed by Whittier with 94.5 points.

Greater Lowell, who was originally slated to host the meet, was unable to either host or attend the meet due to the rains last week that caused a flood at their school.

"Their whole athletic complex was under water so we knew they could not host the meet so we stepped up and offered our place," Shawsheen coach Jay Tildsley said. "But their coach was at the seeding meeting and put his kids in and we expected them to be there, but we never heard from them."

The Rams certainly were not about to give their victory back, but on the other hand they were a little disappointed at not having a chance at redemption against the Gryphons.

"It was a little bittersweet," Tildsley said. "We were happy to win, but we would have liked to have gone head to head with Greater Lowell again. But what can you do?"

Among the most outstanding performances for the Rams was Tewksbury resident Tyler McCarthy who had three second place finishes, taking the runner up spot in the high jump, the triple jump and the 110 hurdles.

"He had been out for a little while and he came back feeling he had something to prove," Tildsley said. "And he went out and did very well for us."

Another Tewksbury resident, sophomore Josh Delisle, also continued his great season, posting another personal best in the 300 meter hurdles with a time of 44.9. Delisle also took a second place finish in the 400.

"He has one of the best strides I have seen in a long time," Tildsley said. "He moves like no one I have seen and he does not want to lose. He's been a very good find for us since coming over from baseball."

Other local winners for the Rams included Tewksbury resident Chris Damp who won the 800 meters in a time of 2:13.

Despite not having Greater Lowell at the meet, the Rams took a tremendous amount of pride in hosting the CAC meet for the first time, and they made it a point to defend their turf against their league rivals.

"That made the win a little better, having it at our place," Tildsley said. "We talked about it before the meet, and told the kids that it doesn't matter who's here, no one comes into our place and beats us. The kids responded and did a great job."

On Monday afternoon the Rams participated in the state vocation meet and had another outstanding day, finishing fourth out of 15 teams.

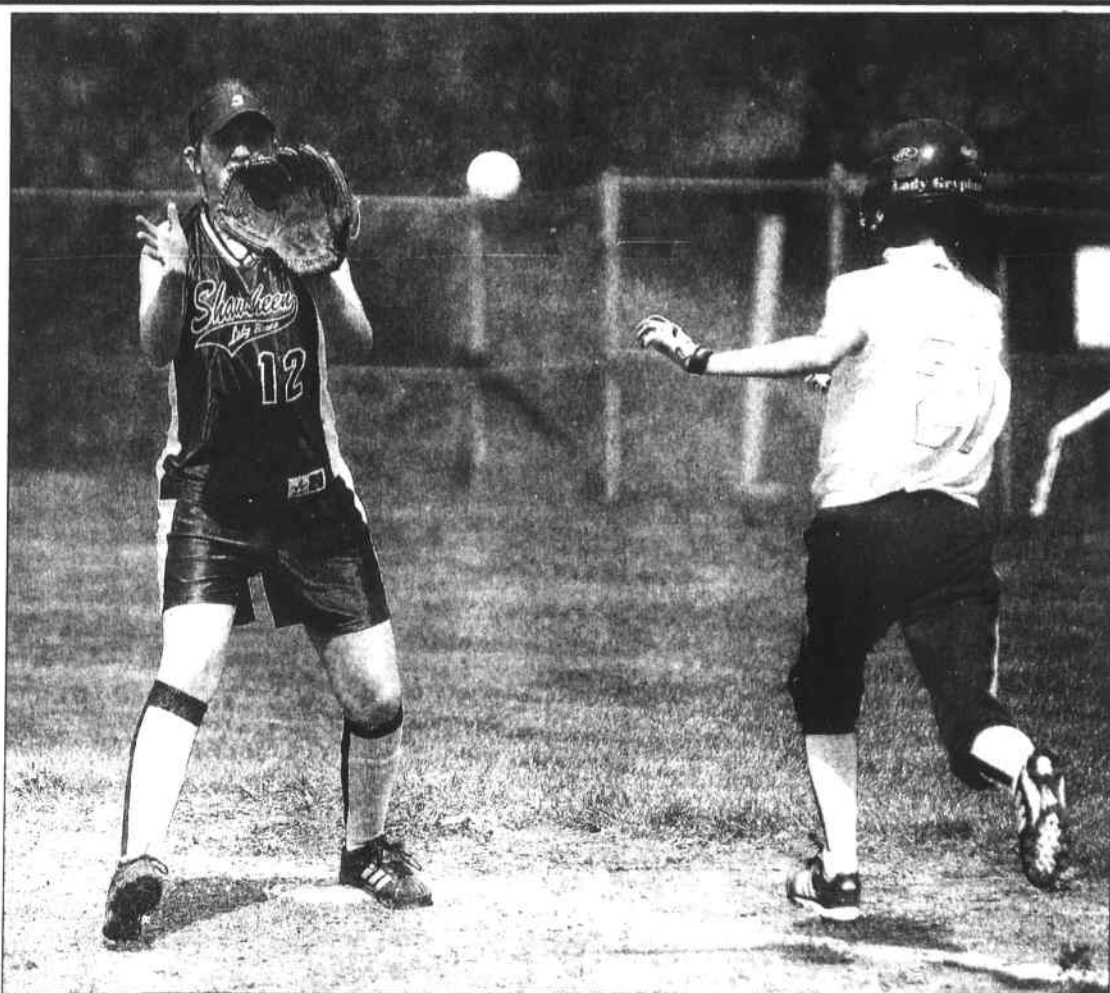

Delisle had another great day in the meet, besting his previous personal best with a time of 43.8, for a second place finish in the 300 meter hurdles, coming in just behind the winner who had a time of 43.5.

Damp took second in the 800 with a personal best time of 2:11.

"Chris is only a sophomore and he has been first or second in every meet this season," Tildsley said.

The Rams also got a third place finish from senior Mike Shanahan in the mile with a time of 5:07 and a third place finish from the 4 x 400 relay team of Shanahan, Delisle, Andy Cowan and Damp with a personal best time of 3:57.

Overall the Rams scored 48 points, while meet champion Greater New Bedford Voke scored 78 points.

PMA ends softball team's seven game winning streak

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech softball team saw their seven game winning streak end in disappointing fashion on Tuesday afternoon, suffering a tough 3-1 loss to CAC rival PMA of Methuen.

The loss dropped the Lady Rams record on the season to 14-4 overall and 10-3 in the CAC, and eliminated them from contention for the league title, with PMA having only one league loss on the season.

Despite the disappointment of the loss, Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley is anything but disappointed with her team's effort in this game or throughout the season.

"PMA is a very good team and they played very well. They have beaten us twice now," Buckley said. "We played them tough. We are a young team and we made some mistakes, but it was a huge plus for our team to play so well against them."

Freshman sensation Kelli Jo Deardorff continued her great season pitching allowing only three hits while striking out 10, but she was done in by a combination walks and errors that allowed PMA just enough to escape with a victory.

PMA got on the board in the first inning with a walk, a passed ball and a single for the game's first run, and Shawsheen tied it in the fourth when Sophomore Melanie Strazzere doubled and scored on a two base throwing error.

PMA got the winning runs in the fifth inning after an error, a walk and a passed ball put runners on second and third and they were driven in with a single.

Buckley was pleased with how well Deardorff was able to pitch in such a big game, and taking the loss could not dim her enthusiasm with the way her freshman star responded.

"That's a lot of pressure for a freshman out there, to be pitching in a game that basically decides the league title," Buckley said. "But she responded well and did a great job."

Another highlight of the day for Shawsheen was the play of catcher Robyn Wyatt who threw out two runners trying to steal.

Overall Buckley felt her team played well, but simply had the misfortune of going up against a quality pitcher who was able to shut her team down.

"The day before we played against a pitcher who was not throwing very hard and then we went up against this one today who was throwing very hard, and I think it was somewhat of a confidence issue for us," Buckley said. "We have not had a problem hitting the ball all season, but I think mentally we had some doubts today."

On Monday the Lady Rams had no such problems as they rolled to a 10-3 decision over Whittier in a five inning game shortened by curfew, since Whittier had played another game earlier in the day.

Shawsheen took care of business quickly in this one scoring four runs in the first inning and six more in the third. Deardorff led the way on offense as well as with her pitching, collecting a pair of hits, including a double while pitching three innings and allowing only one hit.

On Sunday Shawsheen coasted to another easy victory, this time by a score of 16-0 over Mount Alvernia, banging out a season high 18 hits and getting a no hitter for Deardorff over five innings in a game called by the mercy rule.

Strazzere had a great day going 3-for-5 with two doubles and two runs scored, while Melissa Gouveia went 3-for-3 with three runs scored and four steals.

"The girls have been working extremely hard on their hitting, and for the most part have been hitting the ball well in all games against all styles of pitching," Buckley said.

Shawsheen will wrap up their regular season on Friday afternoon with a home game against Greater Lawrence. A win against the Reggies will likely secure a spot for the Lady Rams in the state vocational tournament beginning next Monday.

"If we win that would give us a 9-1 record against voke schools so hopefully that should get us in," Buckley said. "If we lose we still may go, but I am not as sure about that. We have said all year that we would very much like to qualify for the voke tournament."

Co-Ed Tennis team picks up eighth win

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech co-ed tennis team, like nearly every area team, has seen their schedule greatly affected by the recent foul weather, and as a result found themselves in a unique situation of playing a doubleheader on Tuesday afternoon at home against Greater Lawrence.

The Rams responded to the situation with flying colors, winning both ends of the doubleheader by identical 5-2 scores, with all four singles players and the number one doubles team taking a pair of victories.

The two wins improved the Rams record on the season to 8-2.

In first singles, Tewksbury's Jared Palmer won by scores of 10-6 and 10-3, while another Tewksbury resident Ken Bailey won second singles by an even more dominating 10-0, 10-3.

"I can always count on these guys at one and two to bring their 'A' game," Shawsheen coach J.P. Boriello said. "Ken has made great strides. He has developed a great serve and is playing well. Jared has been consistent all year long. He just goes out and gets the job done."

In third singles sophomore Breanne Kindred of Wilmington earned victories of 10-6 and 10-5 over a boy from Greater Lawrence, continuing her solid play that has carried her to a very successful season.

"She did real well and has had a great year," Boriello said. "I am looking forward to bringing her back next year and moving her up to number one or number two. It will be good to have her there, because that can be intimidating for a boy."

Fourth singles was the most dominating performance of the day as freshman Kyle Stocki of Tewksbury rolled to victories of 10-0, 10-0. Stocki has made a habit of dominating his opponents at fourth singles and is another player whom Boriello is looking forward to having for the next few years.

"He's been doing real well," Boriello said. "He's another one who will have to step up for us next year and take on more responsibility. I think he will be able to do it, considering the great year he has had as a freshman."

The first doubles team of Dan Metcalf and Wilmington's Rocco Puccio also scored a pair of victories, winning by scores of 10-5 and 10-6.

"They work real well together and they are getting better every time they go out there," Boriello said. "They know each other's habits and that has been a big part of why they have done so well."

The Rams will wrap up their regular season on Thursday afternoon at home against Greater Lowell, hoping to gain a measure of redemption against the team that has handed them their only two losses of the season, and they will also have several players competing in the CAC Tournament next week.

Tough loss for Rams boys lacrosse

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech lacrosse team has made a habit of playing close games this season, winning several of these contests, while also losing their share. Unfortunately for the Rams, on Tuesday afternoon in a road game against Mass Technical Lacrosse League (MTLL) rival South Shore, they saw one of the close games go against them as they suffered a very tough 7-6 loss.

The loss dropped the Rams record on the season to 7-6 overall and 6-5 in the MTLL.

The Rams got off to a tough start in this one and were never able to fully recover. They trailed 2-0 at the end of the first quarter and fell behind 3-0 before getting on the board, but they still trailed 5-2 at halftime.

"We got down early and I sometimes think that the long road trip over there affects us because we always seem to go down early when we play there," Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker said. "I don't want to make excuses, but it does seem to have an effect."

Baker was definitely not making any excuses for his team at halftime, as he let them know how disappointed he was in their play up to that point, and the Rams seemed to respond to their coach's motivation coming back to tie the game at 5-5 just five minutes into the third quarter on a goal by Dan Roy.

South Shore had extended their lead to 7-5 by the end of the third quarter, and although the Rams fought hard to come back they were unable to get the equalizer and went down to the tough defeat.

"Some kids just did not come to play today and we only had four kids who scored points so that was very disappointing," Baker said. "This was a team we beat earlier in the year and we expected to go out there and beat them again, but we weren't able to get it done."

One player who definitely did come to play for the Rams was Roy, who despite playing with a shoulder injury scored four goals and added an assist.

"That's just the type of kid he is. He hates to lose and he is able to keep his composure no matter what the situation is," Baker said. "If he didn't come to play the score could have been 7-2 because he was one of the few who did come to play."

Senior Kyle Marzeoti had a goal and an assist as did Mike Arricale and sophomore Shawn Donovan of Tewksbury had two assists.

On Monday the Rams traveled to Assabet Valley and came away with a 7-5 win.

While Baker was happy to see his team win, it was not exactly the type of effort he was hoping for against one of the MTLL's weaker teams.

"We went out to a 3-0 lead and were up 4-1 at the end of the first quarter, and I just think the kids thought it would be easy," Baker said. "But they have some kids who can put the ball in the net and they were able to stay in the game."

Marzeoti had three goals on the day, while Jake Castro of Tewksbury stepped in for the injured Roy and had two goals and an assist.

"Jake really stepped it up with Dan out," Baker said. "The problem Jake has sometimes is that he tries too hard, but he kept his composure in this one and had a great game for us."

The Rams will wrap up their regular season on Thursday afternoon against Minuteman needing one more win to qualify for the state tournament. They hope to have qualified for the post season before Thursday, as they were scheduled to take on Lynn Tech on Wednesday afternoon. Results of the Lynn Tech game were not available as of press time.

Whittier Tech blanks Rams on the diamond

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech baseball team suffered a tough 6-0 loss to CAC rival Whittier on Tuesday afternoon at the Tech to drop their record to 11-7 overall and 7-5 in the CAC. It was the Rams second loss in a row, having dropped an 11-5 non-league decision to Bishop Fenwick on Monday.

But the news was hardly all bad for the Rams this week, as last Thursday and Friday they secured a berth in the state tournament with a pair of wins over Minuteman and Lowell Catholic, the Minuteman game being a thriller that the Rams won in nine innings by a score of 5-3.

The Whittier game was obviously a tough loss to take as the Rams were held to just four hits, but coach Kevin Bloom was philosophical about the loss, and was not about to lost faith in his tournament bound squad.

"It was really a 3-0 game until late in the game," Bloom said. "That happens sometimes in high school baseball where you are just facing a tough pitcher and you get shut down."

The Rams got hits from Brandon McCarthy, DJ Bemis, Chris Bradley and Steve McIsaac.

On Monday the Rams took on a Fenwick team that brought just a 6-10 record into the game, but has made a habit of putting together great post season runs regardless of their record, as evidenced by their run to the state title two years ago.

"That's why we wanted to play them at this time of year," Bloom said. "It was a bit of a wake up call for us that we need to step up our intensity if we want to be successful in the tournament."

Fenwick did most of their damage with a pair of big innings, scoring five times in the third inning and three more in the sixth to blow the game open after the Rams had pulled to within 6-5.

Shortstop Tom Joyce of Tewksbury had two hits and scored three runs for the Rams while another Tewksbury resident, second baseman Mike Oliveira also had two hits, including a double.

"Tom has been playing real well at shortstop and he has been consistent all season long," Bloom said. "Oliveira has done a great job defensively for us and he has given us a good bat at the bottom of the lineup."

Against Lowell Catholic, the Rams had an offensive explosion on their way to a 12-8 victory, with Wilmington resident Steve McIsaac leading the charge by going 3-for-4 with a three run homer and six RBI's on the day.

"Steve's been doing a nice job for us in the four hole all season long. He's really hitting the ball well," Bloom said.

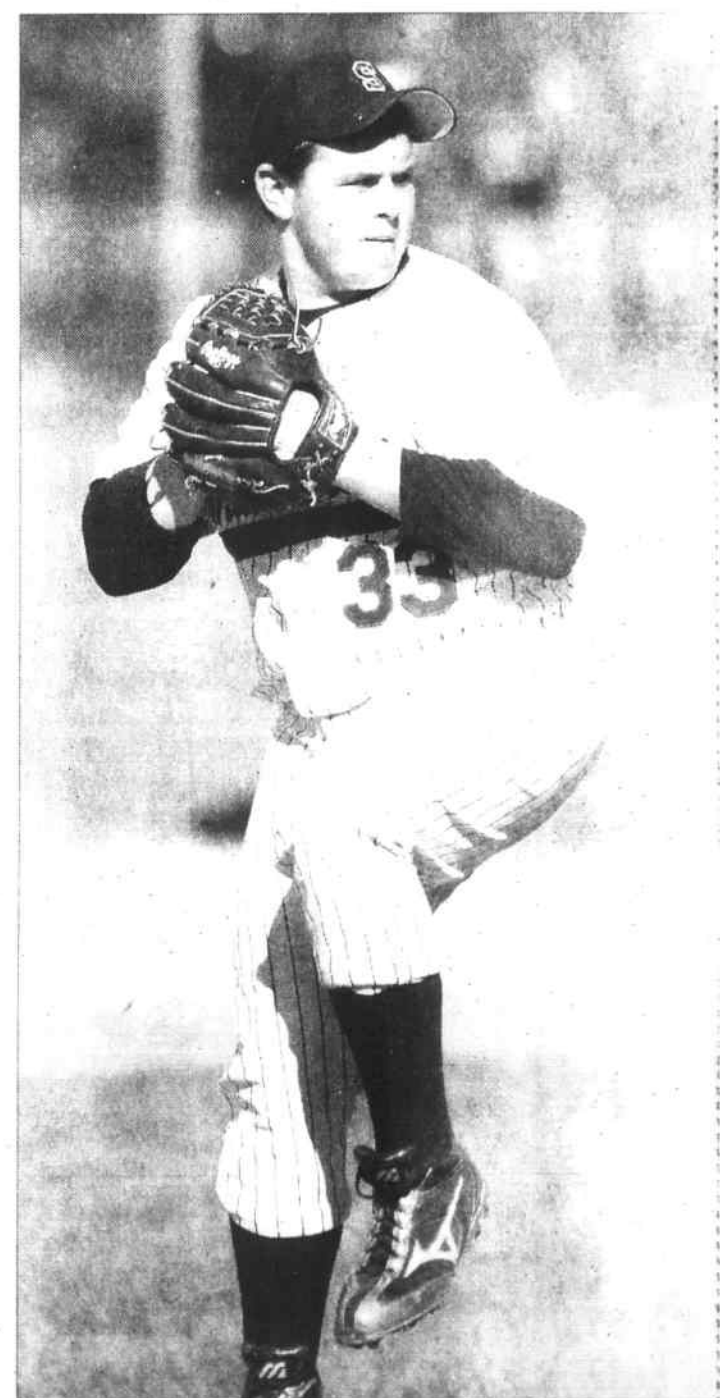

Oliveira went 2-for-4 while Tewksbury's Chris Bradley went 2-for-2 with two runs scored.

Thursday's win over

Minuteman sealed the tournament berth for the Rams as they scored two runs in the ninth with the first run scoring on a hit by Anthony Miano that was played by the Minuteman fielder.

Rob McIsaac of Wilmington was outstanding on the day for Rams, going 3-for-4 in the fourth and fifth innings and allowing only two hits and no earned runs, striking out three.

"Rob was right in the plate all day. He was effective," Bloom said. "We had to make plays behind him defensively and we did."

Anthony Miano pitched for the Shawsheen Rams baseball team during Monday's home game played against Whittier Tech.

Former Shawsheen Rams star

Elwell named GNAC Pitcher of the Year

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

While at Shawsheen Tech, Jenn Elwell was the master at striking out batters. During her four years as a Ram, she was a three-time league MVP, a three-time All-Scholastic, she tossed 59 shut outs and 13 no-hitters and also broke and still holds the Massachusetts state record for strikeouts with 1,119, after passing the longtime mark previously set by Lisa Moore.

Last year, Elwell moved on from high school to college. From her standards she struggled going from an 20-4 season and an 0.09 ERA as a senior in high school to an 10-5 mark with an 1.68 ERA while she struck out 81 batters in 95 plus innings as a freshman at Suffolk University.

While adjusting to college life and new surroundings on and off the field, Elwell admitted that last year's rookie season took a toll on her as she really struggled with the mental aspect of it. This year that all turned around. She took some words of advice from last year's coach, added a new pitch and she took off once again. This past spring as a sophomore, Elwell ended the season with an 20-6 record, an 1.23 ERA and was named the Great Northeast Athletic Conference Pitcher of the Year. "It's tough," she said about the adjustment from high school to college. "The competition is harder. You have to get used to a new team, but the team's awesome and they really accept freshmen. It's just a different ball game. In high school I was used to striking everyone out and carrying the team, but here everyone can hit and the defense is unbelievable."

In high school, Elwell had a real carefree attitude. She went out, pitched the best she could, tried her hardest but always had a smile on her face. She helped lead the Rams to three straight sectional title appearances, while advancing twice to the Division 3 state semi-final game. But now in college, perhaps because she is now 20 years old and more mature, she had to taken on a different approach.

"Last year (former head coach) Elaine Schwagger came up to me and ask what was going on," said Elwell. "She said that I didn't look like the same pitcher. She told me that college was much different than high school. You don't strike out everyone and you have to rely on your defense. She was great and she really helped me. I didn't worry about striking people out because the defense behind me was unbelievable."

Suffolk advanced to the championship game of the GNAC tournament, losing to perennial Division 3 power Western New England College, who have won the tournament each of the past five years. Suffolk went into the double elimination tournament with three wins, before losing twice to WNEC, 7-4 and 4-2, to finish the season with a 31-10 record. Elwell was named to the all-tournament team, as she started all five on the mound finishing with a 3-2 record, which included 29 strikeouts in 24 innings, while posting a 2.00 ERA. That included tossing a four-hitter in the team's opening victory over New England College.

First year Suffolk University coach Vicki Schull said that the team had some lofty expectations for Elwell coming into this season.

"It is very exciting for our program knowing that she has two more years left to play," big difference between coaching styles. Last year she said Swagger was more intense whereas Schull was much more laid back. She said she has enjoyed both coaches, and both have helped her a lot making the tough transition. She added that her teammates have been terrific, but losing five seniors off this year's team will not be easy to replace.

"The season was awesome," she said. "We did really well. We finished second in the GNAC Tournament, and we qualified for the NCAA Tournament. We played the said Schull. "We had high expectations for Jen coming into the season and she definitely rose to the challenge posting 172 strikeouts in 164 innings and holding opponents to just a .183 batting average. She was 20-6 in the circle and that ranked her 21st overall in victories in NCAA Division three."

But to make that leap to the stats and pitching style she had this year, Elwell had to make several adjustments. She started with the mental aspect, and then went to her arsenal of pitches.

"Last year I lived with my curve ball and I started to get around," she said. "I started to work on a new pitch the screw ball, and the new coaching staff really worked with me on it. It only took me two or three weeks to get it down. I knew that I needed to come up with another pitch."

Elwell said that she still throws the fastball, change-up and curveball with the occasional drop. She's still improving on her rise pitch but said the screwball was very helpful.

"It would start on the outside and then break in at the end onto the hands (of the batters)," said the business marketing major. "That way I'd get a little pop up or a groundball. The screwball is probably the easiest pitch to learn."

Elwell said that there was a first game and then the rest of the tournament was rained out. But we have five awesome seniors, who'll be leaving including Ashleigh Belanger from Billerica. They have all been such a big part to the team."

But returning next year besides Elwell is Cambridge's Jess Ferreira, who also grabbed some hardware. She was voted the GNAC Rookie of the Year.

"Jess is awesome," said Elwell. "She deserved the award - she had such a great season."

Elwell said though that she was totally thrown off guard when she was named the conference's top pitcher.

"I was completely shocked," she said. "I don't know why but I just didn't think that I was above the rest of the pitchers in the league. We're all pretty much the same."

Schull begs to differ.

"Jenn is a true pitcher with a lot of natural talent and great composure on the mound," said the coach. "Her curve ball has been her 'go to' pitch and this year she was able to complement that with a screwball that she developed in the pre-season. That type of in and out movement combined with her speed make it very difficult for hitters to be successful against her."

Under 11A girls take on Somerville

On Saturday the U11A girls soccer team traveled to Somerville to battle the Highlanders for first place on a sloppy field. It was arguably the most exciting game of the season, both of the teams showed why they are tied for first place in their division.

The Wildcats sent strikers Taylor O'Byrne and Kristen Tavares into the Somerville zone, backed by midfielders Kelsey Mangan, Kim Woods and Colleen Brothers. Both teams traded rushes into each other's zones with both goalies making big saves.

Midway through the first half O'Byrne put a corner kick in front of the Somerville net, in the chaos that followed, Brothers got control of the ball and bounced it off a defender into the net. For the rest of the half Lauren McKenna stopped all shots that came her way. The defense in front of her was made up of Jane Farrell, Emma Barrasso and Jackie Parece.

The second line of attack consisted of Holly Niemiec and Gianna Tummino with their midfielders, Alliy Gemellaro, Jackie Kennedy and Michelle Woods, they repeatedly squashed any attempt for Somerville to mount an attack. The first half ended with Wilmington up by a goal. Somerville managed an attack into the Wildcat end, their striker came up the right side and took the shot, it was blocked in front but was not cleared out and the loose ball was put into the net.

For the rest of the half Wilmington used their speed to continually attack the Somerville net, three shots went just wide of the net. On the other end the Wildcats stopped the few shots that Somerville had. When the clock ran out the score was tied at one apiece. This was the second tie that these two evenly matched squads have had this spring. It was a great game to watch for those lucky enough to be there.

Who's having fun on the streets of Stoneham and Reading?

Herbie the Love Bug

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Reading resident Christopher Wildfong came home from work one day to find he was the proud owner of a real Herbie the Love Bug from the Walt Disney Movie "Herbie, Fully Loaded."

Wildfong won the 1963 Volkswagen Delux Ragtop, better known as Herbie 24, or Junkyard Herbie in the movie. The number 24 designation shows that it was one of about 30 vehicles used in the 2005 flick that also featured NASCAR Herbie, Demolition Derby Herbie, and Tricked Out Herbie.

"I was surfing the internet on moviefone.com and found a win a Herbie Fully Loaded Sweepstakes," Wildfong said. I sent in my e-mail address and a few months later they called to tell me that they (the sweepstakes operators) would be sending me an affidavit stating that I had won the car. By that time I had forgot that I entered the sweepstakes.

"I got the car about one year after the movie came out and I've had it since the end of July or the beginning of August.

Although Wildfong describes himself as a Herbie fan "...I'm not religious about it. I have all the movies on DVD (digital video display) but I just recently watched Fully Loaded. When I got the car I had the movie but I had never watched it."

One thing is for certain, Herbie 24 will always be I top operating condition with its new owner. Wildfong is an auto mechanic with Floods Service Center in Stoneham.

The car comes complete with the L87 Volkswagen Pearl White paint job and the official Herbie 53 racing decal and stripes. While called "pearl white" by VW, the actual color is a grey with a slight bit of tan mixed in.

Other features of the car are the original brackets for the hydraulics that allowed Herbie to do such tricks as shake itself like a dog after it has been washed, and open and close its hood and trunk on its own. However, the hydraulic machinery has been removed so that Cinema Vehicles, the company that customizes the Volkswagens for the Disney movies and other Hollywood ventures could reuse them.

The engine is a regular VW 1600 cc, but the exhaust has been modified so that it sounds a little louder than a normal Bug. It is also equipped with the brackets for the skid plate that was used when the car

Reading resident, Christopher Wildfong won the 1963 Volkswagen Delux Ragtop, better known as Herbie 24, or Junkyard Herbie in the Disney movie. Herbie can be spotted on the streets of Stoneham and Reading rode on top of a rail during the movie.

One special part of this Herbie is the glove box. It comes complete with the autographs of three of the movies stars, Lindsay Lohan, Matt Dillon and Michael Keaton.

You might not expect it, but this car will not spend its life sitting in a garage. When not on one of his two motorcycles, Wildfong likes to take the car out for a spin and has even used it in some parades and entered it in custom car shows.

"People tell me not to drive it," Wildfong said, "but I feel it's a car. What is the point in owning a car if you can't drive it?"

He added, "It's actually a pretty fun car to drive around in and watch the people's reactions, especially the kids."

"It seems that every generation seems to know Herbie."

Wildfong has had the car appraised and got a figure of $40,000. However, he feels it might be worth more.

He has met a chiropractor in Lowell who has a replica of a Herbie, that was not used in a movie and that car has been appraised for $40,000. At any rate Wildfong has no immediate plans to sell his Herbie.

He would like to use it as a fundraising tool for charities and perhaps do more parades.

One group approached him about obtaining the car for an auction to raise money.

"I'm still going to keep it and have some fun with it," Wildfong said.

In the movie, according to movie.yahoo.com, Lohan's character, "Maggie Peyton, is the new owner of Number 53—the free wheelin' Volkswagen bug with a mind of its own; she puts the car through its paces on the road to becoming a NASCAR competitor."

"As a third generation member of a NASCAR family, racing is in Maggie Peyton's blood, but she is forbidden from pursuing her dream by her over-protective father, Ray Peyton, Sr. When Ray Sr. offers Maggie a car as a college graduation present, he takes her to a junkyard to choose one from an assortment of very used cars."

"Maggie has her eye on an old Nissan, but a certain rusty, banged up '63 VW Bug seems to be clamoring for her attention. To her surprise, Maggie leaves the lot with Herbie."

"As she prepares to leave town for a position with ESPN News, Maggie discovers that Herbie has a mind of his own—and an alternate route for her future."

The Herbie movies started in 1969 with Walt Disney's "The Love Bug" starring Dean

Jones. There are four others in this classic era of Herbie films - "Herbie Rides Again," "Herbie Goes to Monte Carlo," and "Herbie Goes Bananas," as well as the 1982 CBS television program, "Herbie, The Love Bug."

Since 1997, "Love Bug '97" and Fully Loaded have been added to the series.

According to one source, "Officially, Herbie is a U.S. spec 1963 VW Beetle Delux ragtop; however, Disney used a wide range of modified VWs for the job, which have ranged from modified fiberglass 1957 VWs to stock 1966 VW Bugs."

Movie Reviews

by Paul Feely

"THE DA VINCI CODE" TOO LONG

"THE DA VINCI CODE"

GRADE: **

Based on Dan Brown's best-selling novel, "The Da Vinci Code" spins a web of murder, deceit and a fictional conspiracy that, if exposed, could shake Christianity to its very foundations. Throw in a quest for the Holy Grail as well, and you have the makings of what should be a fairly decent summer thriller.

Think again.

A convoluted plot bogs down "The Da Vinci Code", and requires too much audience attention. And director Ron Howard's meticulous approach - not to mention the scholarly subject matter - robs the story of much of its tension. Ideally, this sort of movie should cruise along at express-train speed, but "Da Vinci's" plods along, wrapping of 2,000 years of religious teachings in two and a half hours.

The story begins with a murder in the halls of Paris' Louvre Museum, and the mysterious symbols surrounding the body of the victim, a renowned curator.

Harvard symbologist Robert Langdon (Tom Hanks) happens to be lecturing in Paris - which makes him a suspect in the mind of detective Bèzu Fache (Jean Reno).

Lucky for Robert that police cryptologist Sophie Neveu (Audrey Tautou) also arrives on the scene - and helps Robert evade certain arrest.

They uncover a plot involving two clandestine religious organizations - one charged with preserving a centuries-old secret the other with bumping off those who know it.

The shadowy trail leads Robert and Sophie from Paris to London and points in between, as they run from a murderous monk (Paul Bettany).

The book by author Dan Brown that the film is based on was a fun read, but the big screen version is too long. The end result is a painting that at times is pretty to look at, but not up to the high standards of Da Vinci himself.

"POSEIDON"

GRADE: **

Poseidon is a 'leave your brain at the door and go along for the ride' summer movie, and doesn't try to disguise itself as any type of drama. It is what it is, and the actors and director Wolfgang Petersen know it and decide to have fun with it.

The story's simple enough - a rogue wave hits a cruise ship packed with passengers playing poker, listening to Fergie from the Black Eyed Peas (she plays the role of a lounge singer), and celebrating New Year's Eve. The wave strikes, the ship turns over, and now what's supposed to be the floor becomes the ceiling and the only way out is through the bottom of the ship.

A small group decides to disobey the Captain's orders and leave the ballroom in search of a way off the doomed ship. While everyone else remains inside the supposedly safe ballroom, 10 strike out on their own.

The cast (including Kurt Russell, Emmy Rossum, Josh Lucas, Richard Dreyfuss, Jacinda Barrett, Mike Vogel, Kevin Dillon, Mia Maestro, Jimmy Bennett and Freddy Rodriguez) should all be applauded for getting into the spirit of the film and putting their lives on the line to give audiences an adrenaline-pumping treat.

The effects are all first-rate and there's a decent amount of armrest clenching moments.

"MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE III"

GRADE: ***

The Mission Impossible franchise is the perfect summer film because of its two strong suits: exotic locales and enormous explosions, usually tied in with some eye-popping stunts as well.

Mission: Impossible III has its own mission, to open up the the popcorn-movie season, and it pulls it off beautifully.

Tom Cruise's Ethan Hunt performs feats of agility and toughness, whether defending the Chesapeake Bay Bridge from missile assault or swinging like Tarzan between Shanghai skyscrapers, or a helicopter chase through a German wind farm.

Director J.J. Abrams (best known for his work on television's spy show Alias and Lost) is a self-professed fan of the television show, and it shows. He even inserts a romantic plotline involving Hunt's kidnapped wife, usually a no-no for a macho action flick like this.

The bar for on-screen villains has been set a little higher after Philip Seymour Hoffman's performance in this one, who is hell-bent on hurting Hunt after he dan-it's DIFFERENT By How?

gles Hoffman out of a plane during another mission to save the world. Nothing is as it seems, and there are traitors everywhere, including in the IMF system itself.

The summer movie season has arrived, and this one is difficult to top as far as action end visuals go.

"UNITED 93"

GRADE: ****

A question passed around at social gatherings around the country the past few weeks was "Is it too soon for a movie like 'United 93'?" Some feel that the wounds of 9/11 are still gaping, that it's too painful to be reminded of what this country endured.

Director Paul Greengrass answers that question with the very first line of dialogue in the film, spoken in Arabic - "It is time."

Each moviegoer will have their own reaction to this piece. This reviewer can only describe his own experience - having sat through much of the film with a heart pounding in anticipation of the terror that was to come, and one that was filled with a sense of triumph as the houselights came back on.

The men and women on that doomed flight fought back, and in doing so saved the Capitol building, national leaders, and another symbol of America from destruction.

No one knows exactly what went on aboard that airplane bound from Newark to San Francisco. But Greengrass' screenplay is thoroughly researched and as realistic and accurate a depiction as one will ever see.

Shot in a documentary style, Greengrass keeps the film focused strictly on the events of that day. It would have been easy, even expected in Hollywood, to focus on one of the passengers and make them the hero, or create a perfect soundtrack for the ad campaign out of the famous "Let's roll" quote uttered on board before the passengers charged the cockpit.

Instead, we don't even learn the names of most of these people, although they've been cast due to specific looks that make them easier to identify.

Career Day held at Austin Prep

High school students at Austin Preparatory School recently took advantage of the opportunity to develop their thoughts on future career paths as part of the school's fifth annual Career Day on Wednesday, March 29th, 2006. Thirty alumni, parents and friends spoke to the students about their chosen professional fields, including architecture, law, screenwriting, law enforcement, performing arts and many others.

Attorney Christopher Carbone, a 1993 Austin graduate, was the keynote speaker at the day's opening assembly. Carbone recently opened his Woburn-based firm, the Law Offices of Christopher Carbone.

He stressed the importance of flexibility and individuality in pursuing a career, saying, "If you try to be like someone else, try to emulate them, all you will ever be is a pale imitation. Be yourself and do things the way you think they need to be done."

Carbone also noted the importance of knowing oneself, adding, "If you figure out who you are and what makes you happy, picking a career will be easy."

At Strecker Dance "Storybook Theatre" acting classes

Acting classes are offered at the Agnes Strecker Dance Studio

Revere, MA, May 1st 2006 - Storybook Theatre and Centerstage are two specifically designed acting programs taught by Peyton Pugmire that are now being offered in the summer at the Agnes Strecker Dance Studio. This will allow dancers to develop another aspect of the performing arts that is not regularly offered at the studio.

Storybook Theatre is a one week program designed for kids in 5th through 8th grade that introduces kids to different facets of theatre performance. Things such as improvisation, physical warm-ups, vocal exercises, choreography, character development, script writing, and performance will be taught. Storybook Theatre instills basic acting skills needed to perform in front of an audience and then progresses to give kids a strong foundation in theatre by the end of the week.

Centerstage is an exciting three-day workshop for teenage students that allows them to explore acting technique, character development, and improve their "stage presence." Centerstage is an advanced theatre program that delves deeper into theatrical understanding. Things like scene and monologue selection, scripts, and actor collaboration will be introduced.

Both Storybook Theatre and Centerstage is being offered at the Agnes Strecker Dance Studio's Groveland location July 5th - 7th 2006. Storybook Theatre is being offered at the studio's Revere and Reading locations. The program runs in Revere from July 10th - 14th and in Reading from July 17th - 21st. www.AgnesStreckerDanceStudio.com for more information.

Centerstage will work on a final performance at the end of each program. Family and friends are welcome to come and be a part of the audience to watch their child's selected performance.

Peyton Pugmire is an alumni of the College of Charleston where he obtained his Bachelor of Arts degree in Theatre Performance. He also attended Emerson College where he obtained his Master of Arts degree in Theatre Education. Pugmire has performed, directed, and produced numerous plays throughout his theatrical career. He is now teaching drama in the Winthrop Public Schools and recently started his own theatre program, Divine Stage Works.

LOTS AND LOTS COOKING

Recipe for success in Woburn

"It is not often a cookie recipe is so good it earns you and yours a family weekend visit to New York City," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"But that was the case recently for Maryanne Saunders and her family as her 'Italian Rum Balls' cookie recipe placed second out of some 690 entries to the 'Today Show,' earning Maryanne and her family the trip to New York for a taping of the NBC show's 'Weekend Edition.'

"The Italian Rum Ball recipe, Saunders said, is from her mother, Anne Vaughan, formerly of Winchester, now living at New Horizons in Woburn."

"It was fabulous," Saunders said of the experience, noting that NBC had the family stay right in the middle of everything in Times Square with her son, Brandon, even getting a private behind-the-scenes studio tour during the taping of the show.

"It was a long day, Saunders explained, as she had to be up and at the studio by 5:30 a.m. to have her hair and make-up done, but it was certainly worthwhile as she was one of four recognized on the show for her entry into the cookie recipe contest hosted by the show.

"As well, Saunders got to meet the hosts of the show, Lester Holt and Campbell Brown."

"Saunders said she submitted the recipe along with a required short story on the history of the recipe leading to her selection as the second best recipe out of the 690 submitted."

Recognition in Stoneham

"The Stoneham Chamber of Commerce recently thanked several Directors who completed their terms of office in 2005," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Directors typically serve a three-year term, and may elect to serve a second three-year term as well."

"Directors Craig J. Celli, Esq., William Shea (School of Mind and Body Harmony) and Paul Sodano (Stoneham Savings Bank) joined the Chamber Board in October of 1999."

"Attorney Celli, who opened his law office in Stoneham two years ago, served as the Chair of the Business School Partnership Committee for five years and was instrumental in the creation of the Mentoring Program that the Chamber has successfully implemented since 2000 at Stoneham High School. He also serves on the town's Board of Assessors."

"Mr. Shea, who in addition to his martial arts studio has recently opened a graphic design business, served as the Chamber's President in 2004, as Vice President in 2003 and chaired the Chamber's Golf Tournament Committee for several years. He has been editing The Chamber Speaks newsletter since 1999 and recently took over the management and redesign of the Chamber's www.stoneham-chamber.org website."

"Mr. Sodano, a Vice President for Commercial Loans at Stoneham Savings Bank, served as President in 2003, as Vice President from 2001 to 2002, and as Treasurer in 2005. He also chaired the Chamber's Budget Committee, the Crystal Ball Committee for a number of years and the Program Committee. In addition, he represented the Chamber as Chair of the Stoneham Business Roundtable and on the I93/128 Task Force and Stoneham's Entrepreneurial Program Review Committee. Mr. Sodano continues to serve on the Finance Committee and as a Mentor."

"These gentlemen were true examples of Chamber partnership," noted Executive Director Sharon Iovanni. "Their commitment to the Board and the members ensured that the Chamber maintained its direction and focused on its mission. While they aren't on the board currently, I am truly delighted that they continue to remain involved."

INTO THE REAL WORLD

Working ahead in Winchester

"The high school experience is designed to help prepare adolescents for the 'real world' that awaits," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Students learn, often the hard way, skills that they will apply in college and beyond. In that interest, Connect and Commit, WHS community service club, is sponsoring a new program called 'Senior Service Internship,' which allows students to provide service to the community while learning about the workforce."

"The idea is piloted by Connect and Commit adviser, Wendy Jebens. Jebens came to WHS one year ago and has since helped Connect and Commit to become one of the most popular organizations at WHS."

"The program allows interested seniors with study halls between February and April vacations to work as interns around town. Students have their choice of internships, and positions are available at Bookends, Winchester Cooperative Bank, Harrison Mulhern Architects, as well as a number of the elementary schools."

"The students seemed enthusiastic about it," commented Elvia Borsari, adviser to the National Honor Society. "Ms. Jebens gave NIS a presentation to get feedback and it seemed like something they were willing to try, and I'm confident that it's going to work well."

"What makes this different from the other opportunities offered by Connect and Commit," explains senior Martina Mirabella, "is that students can do it during the school day. A lot of kids don't really do much during their study halls, but this program helps them to take better advantage of that time. I think a lot of people are interested to get to work at the elementary schools too, so that should generate a lot of interest..."

can often be unattainable for small business owners.

"The Chamber is an outstanding way to meet new and existing businesses in town," Covino said.

"When Covino needs to make a purchase or contract a service herself, she goes right to the Chamber's Business Guide. Businesses interested in joining the Chamber are encouraged to call 978-657-7211 to request an application for membership."

Thinking 2009 in Wakefield

"The Wakefield School Committee has unveiled a draft of their Strategic Plan for 2006 through 2009," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Superintendent of Schools Dr. Maynard Suffredini, Jr., spearheaded the strategic plan project and ultimately, the plan's timeline was reduced from five years to three years."

"The overall intent [of the strategic plan] is to ensure a more effective focus upon specific goals that will encourage continued growth and more positive development in Student Achievement Technology and Facilities," remarked Suffredini.

"The Mission Statement that will be included in the Student Handbook states, 'The Wakefield Public School System is committed to the pursuit of academic excellence, respect for individual differences and the development of personal responsibility."

"Students are challenged to reach their full potential through curriculum and instruction that is developmentally appropriate, data driven and differentiated to meet the needs of all learners."

"In collaboration with parents and the community, we are dedicated to providing all students with the skills necessary to become contributing members of society."

"The Student Achievement Plan was presented by Co-Chairmen Joan Landers and Debbie Collura. They addressed grade level expectations, instructional strategy and the recruitment and retention of effective instructional staff."

"Technology Director Jim Hayme outlined the Technology Goals of increasing the staff to provide better support and to create a program to increase and maximize the hardware and software."

"Assistant Superintendent Peter DeRoeve and Peter Evangelista addressed the Facilities Plans with a priority on the Greenwood School, the Galvin and the High School buildings..."

LEWIS AND CLARK EXHIBIT EXTENDED

The Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology at Harvard University announces the extension of its exhibition From Nation to Nation: Examining Lewis and Clark's Indian Collection, scheduled to close Dec. 31, will remain on display one additional year until Dec. 2007.

From Nation to Nation commemorates the bicentennial of the Lewis and Clark Expedition: the Corps of Northwest Discovery as part of the U.S. national celebration throughout 2004-2006.

As the repository of the only remaining Native American objects acquired by the Corps of Northwest Discovery during their epic trek, the Peabody Museum displays some 35 objects of the period, including the newly rediscovered bear claw necklace. The objects they later presented to President Thomas Jefferson, the architect of the historic expedition, and to the Peale Museum in Philadelphia, were received as diplomatic and chiefly gifts, or simply as customary trade items.

The exhibit conveys the nature and flavor of Lewis and Clark's relationships with the Indian peoples they encountered. The exhibition is complemented by the volume Arts of Diplomacy: Lewis and Clark's Indian Collection by Peabody Museum Associate Curator Dr. Castle McLaughlin.

The Peabody Museum is located at 11 Divinity Ave in Cambridge. Museum hours are 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. 7 days a week. Closed Thanksgiving, Christmas eve, Christmas and New Years. Admission is $7.50 for adults, $6 for students and seniors, $5 for children 3 - 18.

Watch for hidden hazards in pools and hot tubs

As more kids enjoy the warm weather with a dip in the pool, it's important for parents to be on guard against one of the leading causes of accidental death in children: drowning.

Fortunately, there are a number of ways parents can keep their kids safe - and new legislation may help.

The legislation will encourage states to require protection - such as fencing and devices that reduce drain suction - around pools and hot tubs.

Every year there are 2,400 pool-related drownings from various causes among kids ages one through fourteen. Many parents do not realize that one of the most alarming dangers to children in pools and hot tubs is drain entrapment, which occurs when a child's body or hair gets attached to an underwater drain in a pool or hot tub.

Drowning is the biggest accidental injury related cause of death among children ages one through four in the United States. It is the second biggest killer of children ages one through fourteen.

In 2002 alone, 838 children died as a result of accidental drowning - enough children to fill a small primary school.

Safe Kids Worldwide, with help from Johnson & Johnson, works to teach families how to prevent drain entrapment. They offer these tips:

- Warn children about the dangers of drain entrapment and teach them to stay away from the drain.

- Install equipment to prevent entrapment if you own a pool or hot tub. Protective measures include anti-entrapment drain covers, multiple drains in new construction and a device to automatically release the suction and shut down the pump, should entrapment occur.

- Actively supervise children around water and have a phone nearby to call for help in the event of an emergency.

- Ensure your pool has four-sided fencing. It's estimated that proper installation and use of four-sided fencing could prevent fifty to ninety percent of all childhood residential swimming pool drownings of near drownings.

Also, use a self-closing, self-latching gate to prevent a child from wandering into the pool area unsupervised. Hot tubs should be covered and locked when not in use.

- Install a door alarm, a window alarm or both to alert you if a child wanders into the pool area unsupervised.

For more information on pool and hot tub safety tips, go online and visit www.usa.safekids.org or call 202-662-0600.

Siding: recouping remodeling costs

Some home improvement/repair projects are necessary regardless of cost, such as installing a new hot water heater when the old one stops working, but other projects, such as updating the kitchen or installing new windows, are more a function of having the money to do so - and how much they add to a home's value when it comes time to sell.

According to the most recent "Cost Vs. Value Report," published in Remodeling Magazine, the most cost-effective remodeling job is re-doing the bathroom, with an estimated 102.2 percent of costs recouped in the home's sale. But the number-two project may surprise you: siding replacement.

The report found that when mid-range siding products are used, homeowners can expect to get 95.5 percent of the costs back when they sell the home. For upscale siding, the expected payback is even higher, at 103.6 percent.

And while many indoor projects have fluctuated in their overall value - between 2002 and 2005, bathroom remodels have recouped as little as 79.1 percent of costs - siding has been a relatively steady earner, increasing in value each year over that period.

In addition, since the exterior of the home is the first thing that's seen from the curb, the charm and character that show through with quality siding speaks volumes about the pride a homeowner has in his/her home.

The decision to re-side your home is more than likely, one you'll make once and live with for a long time. That's why it's so important to get all of the facts when making the choice on which siding to purchase and install.

One of the most popular siding choices - both for mid-range and upscale projects - is fiber-cement siding from James Hardie. Whether you're building a new home or remodeling, fiber-cement siding provides low maintenance yet doesn't sacrifice the beauty and character of the wood. The siding resists rotting or cracking and it resists damage from rain and hail.

Movies

the days events unfold is frightening. One feels that somehow people in these positions always have a handle on things, and that's just not the case, and the news footage of the second plane hitting the Twin Towers is just as powerful a moment now as it was five years ago.

Faced with an impossible situation, these passengers decide they have nothing to lose and fight back before they can be turned into a weapon against the United States.

"United 93" creates a degree of suspense matched by few films, which is remarkable when you consider that we already know how it ends.

The cast is great, and many of the air traffic controllers who worked that day play themselves in the film.

"United 93" is a tribute to heroism, and leaves the viewer asking what would they have done if they were in the same impossible-to-comprehend scenario.

"THE SENTINEL"

GRADE: ***

The Sentinel is a very watchable thriller, and has enough intrigue to compensate for an all-too-happy ending.

Michael Douglas plays Secret Service agent Pete Garrison, who 20 years ago took a few bullets intended for President Reagan. He's now in charge of handling first lady Sarah Ballentine's (Kim Basinger) detail, and manages to have an affair with her.

Garrison learns from an old informant that an assassination plot against the president exists inside the Secret Service, and quickly Garrison becomes the chief suspect.

The investigation is handled by two agents, David Breckinridge (Kiefer Sutherland in a role that's very close to his better known incarnation as Jack Bauer on television's "24"), a former Garrison protégé, and Jill Marin (Eva Longoria), a rookie agent.

Director Clark Johnson, whose work on S.W.A.T. in 2003 appeared clunky, gracefully takes on the Secret Service and handles the action scenes gracefully.

The Sentinel is an enjoyable way to spend some time this spring.

MOVIE:
"THE WILD"
GRADE: **

Talking animals from a New York zoo escape and wind up having a tougher time in the unforgiving jungle than they ever did in captivity. Sound familiar?

If you are a parent who took a child to see Disney's "The Wild" this past weekend, and you also saw last summer's "Madagascar" from Dreamworks, then it should. They are essentially the same picture, and separated by just 11 months, a new low as far as Hollywood studios copycatting each other goes.

Even though "The Wild" has supposedly been on the Disney conveyor belt for the past nine years, because Dreamworks beat them to the punch it comes off as a blatant rerun, even though the state of the art animation on display is impressive.

Samson the lion (Kiefer Sutherland) and his buddies Benny the Squirrel (Jim Belushi), Larry the snake (Richard Kind) and Bridget the giraffe (Janeane Garofalo) are the main stars. Disney producers apparently aren't as hip as their counterparts at Dreamworks, who likely wouldn't have missed the opportunity to reference in some way Sutherland's alter ego Jack Bauer from the hit show "24", although some lines do bring the character to mind (such as when he growls, "Just tell me where the green boxes go!").

PASTIMES OF THE SPIRITUALLY RICH

A photographic exhibit, "Pastimes of the spiritually Rich and Famous: the portraits and personal insights of Episcopal clergy on their activities for spiritual renewal" by Deborah Scarff is on display at All Saints' Episcopal Church, 79 Central Street, Stoneham.

It is a collection of portraits of clergy taken by a Massachusetts photographer, Deborah Scarff. Ms. Scarff in the forward to her book of the same name says, "Most of us know the clergy through their vocations in the church. I hope these portraits illuminate abilities and passions, largely unseen, that enrich their lives and reveal other interests, which refresh them outside the church."

The exhibit will be on display into early June. It is open for public viewing Sundays following the normal Sunday service from 11:30 - 12:30 and by appointment by calling 781-438-2776.

ASIA-PACIFIC RIM CULTURAL FESTIVAL

The Special Events Ministry at Saint Barbara Parish in Woburn is sponsoring an Asia-Pacific Rim Cultural Festival.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend this event to be held on Sunday, June 11 from noon to 4 p.m. at the Parish Hall, 138 Cambridge Road in west Woburn near the Four Corners.

This unique event features a Chinese buffet lunch and children's activities, as well as special cultural shows and exhibits that highlight various countries in Asia and the Pacific Rim.

Tickets are available at the Rectory, 781-933-4130. Admission is $12 for adults, $3 for children and 3 or younger are free.

Countries represented in this event include: India, Republic of Korea, Japan, Republic of the Philippines, Peoples Republic of China, Singapore, Thailand and Viet Nam.

AUTHOR EVENT IN NORTH READING

The Friends of the Flint Memorial Library invite you to join them on Tuesday, June 6 at 7 p.m. for a presentation about the new collection of essays, Why I'm Still Married: Women Write Their Hearts Out On Love, Loss, Sex and Who Does the Dishes.

The program will be held at the library, 1437 Park Street, North Reading. Editors Jean Trounstein and Karen Propp, and contributor, Kathleen Aguerok, will read from the collection and answer questions.

Co-editor, Jean Trounstein is the author of Shakespeare Behind Bars: The Power of Drama in a Women's Prison and a book of poems, Almost Oome Free. She teaches at Middlesex Community College. Karen Propp is the author of two memoirs, In Sickness and In Health: A Love Story and The Pregnancy Project Encounters with Reproductive Therapy. Kathleen Aguerok recently published her third book of poems, Daughter Of. She teaches at Pine Manor College.

This well-received book also includes essays by Erica Jong, Julia Alvarez, Anne Bernays, and Bharati Mukherjee. It was on the Boston Globe bestseller list for over eight weeks this winter. Publishers Weekly said, "Each of the contributors to this thought-provoking collection has terrific stories and wisdom to share and they all do it masterfully."

After the reading, copies of the book will be available for signing. The event is free and open to the public. It is sponsored by the Friends of the Library, as part of "Friends Expanding Horizons." Before the reading, there will be a brief annual meeting to elect new officers to the Friends. For more information call 978-664-4942.

NARFE ANNUAL SPRING PARTY

The NARFE 507 Annual Spring Party will be held on June 21 at the Danversport Yacht Club, Danvers, located off Route 62 just off Route 128.

The time is 11:30 a.m. for registration/cocktails. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m. The price is $20/person.

The menu is: Danversport Cheese Spread/assorted crackers, tossed garden salad, fresh baked rolls and choice of chicken Danversport or sliced Roast Beef with bordelaise Sauce, fresh Boston Schrod topped with buttered bread crumbs.

All entrees are served with roasted potatoes and fresh vegetables. Coffee and tea.

Musical entertainment is provided by Don Samson. There will be open seating. Any questions call Party Chair Joanne Torosin at 781-324-0149 or email jtoros13@comcast.net.

SECREG GEMS OF MELROSE

A self-guided tour of carefully selected properties in the eBellevue/Lynn Fells Parkway, Melrose will be offered on Saturday, June 10 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. All properties are within easy walking distance of each other.

Tour staff and docents at each site will explain the history as well as the architectural details of the interiors and exteriors of these remarkable structures.

The tour will begin at the Beebe Estate, 235 W. Foster Street, where day-of-the-tour tickets, brochures, maps and parking information will be available.

Tickets are $15 in advance, $18 on day of tour; senior citizen price is $15. Advance purchases will be possible at RE/MAX Heritage, 653 Main Street and Sweet Thoughts, 504 Main Street.

A map and other additional information is available at www.MelroseHouseTour.org. For more information call 781-665-9672.
